Auto Makers Reject UAW Profit Plan

Industry Big Three Turns Cold Shoulder To Sharing Proposal

DETROIT (AP)—Leaders of the auto industry's Big Three—Ford, Chrysler and General Motors—have greeted Walter Reuther's profit-sharing plan with sharp words that amount to rejection.

A Ford spokesman called the plan unrealistic. General Motors President Harlow H. Curtice said it was "foreign to the concept of the American free enterprise system." L. L. Cofelt, president of Chrysler, said it was inflationary.

For a different reason, the United Auto Workers chief also appears headed for opposition from within his own union.

The reason, says Carl Stellato, a UAW "minority" leader, is that Reuther turned his back on demanding a shorter work week in favor of trying for a profit-sharing plan in this summer's bargaining.

Stellato, president of Ford Local in the UAW, said: "You can bet there will be plenty of opposition to the idea on the floor of the convention—and I'll be right there."

The UAW will convene Jan. 22 to give formal approval of the union's goals in 1958 bargaining sessions.

Stellato, one of the chief opponents of Reuther in the 1½-million-member union, eyed the recent heavy layoffs in the auto industry and said: "Reuther's plan is going to give him more four-day work weeks than he wants—but they'll be the wrong kind."

Reuther's plan would give employees 25 per cent of a company's profits above 10 per cent of net capital before taxes. Another 25 per cent would go to car buyers in the form of rebates. The rest—50 per cent—would be kept by the company.

Civil Rights Hearing Set

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman Eastland (D-Miss.) said today the Senate Judiciary Committee will act "very promptly" to schedule hearings on nominations of the new Civil Rights Commission's members.

Eastland declined to say whether he expected a fight to block any or all of them. There have been reports the nominations might go through the committee and to the Senate for action with far less controversy than some sources had expected previously.

Sen. Ervin (D-NC), reserving the right to change his mind later, told a reporter: "I am inclined now to feel they might as well be confirmed."

Dog Arouses Wayne's Wife As Flames Sweep Residence

ENCINO, Calif. (AP)—Actor John Wayne's wife was slightly burned but she and her baby and servants escaped unharmed otherwise in an early morning fire today at the Wayne residence.

Mrs. Wayne, the former Peruvian actress Pilar Pallete, and her 20-month-old daughter, Aissa, were asleep when the fire broke out in a second-floor bedroom of the house about 3:20 a.m.

Mrs. Wayne said her dachshund, Blackie, awakened her. She saw the flames and rushed to take her daughter to safety on the ground floor. She returned to the second

Sought Crosby Funds

War Hero Captured, Robbery Try Foiled

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP)—A man who says he is a war hero is charged with burglary, assault with a deadly weapon and attempted robbery after a bold try to take the $40,000 receipts from the Crosby Golf Tournament.

He goes into Municipal Court today for a preliminary hearing but the Monterey County sheriff's office said positive identification would have to wait two days for a fingerprint check.

The man who attempted the Melvin Russell Blair, 42, who retired from the Army with a distinguished record.

Blair, who had lived at Alexandria, Va., once threw a .45-caliber automatic pistol in the face of a Communist after running out of ammunition during a battle on Razorback Ridge in Korea.

Blair was wounded in World War II and twice in Korea. Pentagon records show he was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross twice, the Silver Star, the Bronze Star three times, the Air Medal and three Purple Hearts.

Attempts to find Blair failed last night at Washington, D. C., Alexandria and in Kansas towns where he has lived.

The men who attempted the holdup used a gun to force Chester Gillette, Treasurer of the Del Monte Properties Co., and his auditor, Frank Morton, to take him to Del Monte Lodge, where the tournament receipts were being guarded by Deputy Sheriff Tom Martin.

Martin, although sitting with a submachinegun across his knee, said he saw the man's gun but could not fire his own without hitting Gillette or Morton.

After dropping his submachinegun, Martin pretended he had a heart attack and when the bandit came near enough Martin grabbed his pistol hand. The gun went off, giving Martin some powder burns before he subdued his antagonist.

After the man was jailed, a stationwagon was found containing documents and he said he was Blair.

The arrested man said he had been the Pentagon's operations officer for 2½ years.

Army Employees Can Be Tried In Courts Martial

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. Dist. Judge Alexander Holtzoff ruled today that civilian employees attached to the U.S. armed forces abroad may legally be tried by court-martial.

His decision upheld the constitutionality of a provision of the Uniform Code of Military Justice, giving military courts jurisdiction to try civilians.

Holtzoff noted that the precise question has never been passed upon by the Supreme Court.

Sputnik Broke Into 8 Parts

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Sputnik I—the first Russian satellite—broke into eight distinct fragments before its death plunge earlier this month. Ohio State University's radio telescope showed the breakup started in late December when three distinct parts of the satellite were being tracked.

Rebel Sector Placed Under Army's Rule

MADRID (AP)—Spain today changed her rebellious Ifni and Sahara colonies in northwest Africa into separate Spanish provinces and put them under military rule.

A decree signed by Generalissimo Francisco Franco said the two new provinces would be included in the Canary Island military region and that a brigadier general would be named governor general for each.

Spain's other 50 provinces and the Balearic and Canary Islands have civil governors.

Ifni, where hostilities broke out Nov. 23, and the Spanish Sahara were previously grouped in one civil and military unit reporting directly to Madrid. The decree said that because of their proximity to the Canary region, it was militarily advisable to bring them under the command there.

Military informants in Madrid said operations which began yesterday in Rio de Oro, southern zone of the Sahara province, were progressing normally.

Missing Employee Accused Of Theft

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Daniel S. Fisher, a city employee missing from Annapolis since last Wednesday, has been charged with embezzlement.

Fisher, the city's market house and dock master, has been charged with embezzling $369.50 from the city.

His disappearance was disclosed at a City Council meeting last night by Alderman Robert H. Campbell, chairman of the City and Dock Committee.

'Two-Fisted' Fight Asked On Missiles

Russell Calls For Action By McElroy To Speed Program

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) said today a "two-fisted" secretary of defense "can straighten out the nation's missile program without creating any new agencies."

Russell, who heads the Senate Armed Services Committee, took issue with colleagues who have advocated reducing the power of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and placing the missile-satellite programs under a single head.

Favorably Impressed
"All you need to get action now is a two-fisted secretary of defense who's not afraid to assume responsibility and has the President's support," Russell said.

He added in an interview he is "favorably impressed" so far by the speed with which Secretary of Defense McElroy has made decisions but isn't passing final judgment until more changes are made.

A new political storm clouded congressional consideration of how to put the United States in the lead in the race for rocket weapons and manned satellites.

Sen. Knowland of California, Senate Republican leader, and Rep. Martin of Massachusetts, House GOP leader, stirred up the storm by blaming former President Truman for any lag behind Russia in the development of missiles.

They spoke out in reply to Truman's statement in New York that he does not think Eisenhower is "a good policy maker nor is he a good budget maker."

In an unusual "public memorandum" addressed to Truman, the two Republicans said the nation had "rested on our oars during the last years of your administration while the Russians went to work."

Place Blame On Truman

"If today we are behind the Soviet Union in some respects in the race to perfect the weapons of the future—guided and ballistic missiles—a considerable part of the blame lies on the doorstep of your administration," they said.

In New York, Truman first commented that the Republicans "always have to have somebody to pass the buck to." Later he added, "The facts are not as stated."

Russian Papers Say Ike Offered Budget For War

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Press said today President Eisenhower submitted a war budget to Congress.

Pravda, Izvestia and other Moscow morning newspapers gave prompt reaction to the President's budget message under the headline: "Another Arms Race Budget."

Pravda carried a Tass news agency dispatch from Washington stressing military expenditures. It said individual taxpayers must meet 52 per cent of the budget, "while corporations who profit most pay only 27 per cent."

Appeal Aired By Scientists To Stop Tests

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—More than 9,000 scientists of 44 nations have petitioned the United Nations for an international agreement to stop nuclear bomb tests immediately.

The petition warned that "each nuclear bomb test... causes damage to the health of human beings all over the world" and increases "the number of seriously defective children that will be born in future generations."

The petition was circulated by an American Nobel Prize winner, Dr. Linus Pauling, who said he felt it "represents the opinion of a majority of the scientists of the world." Some U. S. authorities questioned the scientific accuracy of the petition when it was first made public last June 3 as an appeal by 2,000 American scientists. Foreign scientists later signed it.

Pauling submitted the petition with 9,235 names to Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld. U. N. makes such documents available to its 82 members on request but takes no action on them itself.

The scientists include 36 Nobel winners, 101 members of the U. S. National Academy of Sciences, 216 members of the Soviet Academy of Sciences and 35 fellows of the Royal Society of London.

Rep. Andresen, 67, Dies In Hospital

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. August H. Andresen of Minnesota died early today at the nearby Bethesda, Md., Naval Hospital. He was 67.

A Republican, Andresen was first elected to Congress in 1924. He was a member of the House Agriculture Committee.

Andresen was admitted to the hospital Dec. 1 for treatment of an intestinal disorder.

Ice Closes Schools In Winchester Area

WINCHESTER, Va. (AP)—Schools in Frederick County were closed today as icy roads made driving conditions dangerous. Winchester schools were not closed. Sleet fell last night in the Frederick County area and stuck to roads in freezing temperatures. A freezing rain fell this morning.

Fast Missile Fired In Test

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (INS)—A small, extremely fast missile was fired today from the U. S. test center.

At 11:45 a. m. a mild roar was heard and a white jet trail appeared high in the cloudless skies.

There was speculation the rocket may have been a test vehicle for the Navy's 1,500-mile range Polaris missile.

Troops Check Street Riots In Venezuela

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—President Marcos Perez Jimenez appeared today to have skinned through another crisis as he revamped his Cabinet for the second time in four days. But more street violence indicated Venezuela's troubles were not over.

Perez Jimenez changed three more Cabinet posts in the wake of his ouster of Gen. Romulo Fernandez from the Defense Ministry.

Meanwhile, police and troops scattered antigovernment student demonstrators in downtown Caracas with machetes and tear gas. Demands for restoration of civil liberties increased.

The capital was under heavy guard. Police, troops, armored cars and tanks ringed the presidential palace. Inside the building soldiers patrolled the corridors with automatic rifles.

Pay Hikes For Federal Workers, Military Asked

WASHINGTON (INS)—The White House today outlined requests President Eisenhower will make to Congress for pay increases of at least six per cent for military personnel and federal civilian workers.

The pay raises, which would cost one billion 53 million dollars, would apply to practically all members of the armed forces and to about a million and a half civilian employees of the government.

Nine Hurt In Blast

CLEVELAND (INS)—Nine men were injured today, none seriously, when an explosion rocked the Ford Motor Co. foundry plant in suburban Brookpark Village.

Nine Airmen Die In Crash Of Transport

PATUXENT, Md. (AP)—A giant Navy transport plane, trying to make an instrument landing at the fog-shrouded Patuxent Naval Air Station, crashed and burned today, killing all nine crewmen aboard.

The R7V four-engine Super Constellation made one pass at the runway and was waved off, witnesses said. On its second approach, the big craft started in short of the runway and slightly to the left.

Again it was waved off. The pilot apparently tried to gun the engines to gain altitude, but the plane clipped treetops as it started to rise and went out of control a hundred feet or so from a housing area for married enlisted personnel.

The plane roared through a patch of trees for a quarter-mile before smashing the ground and exploding with a tremendous roar. Visibility was about a half mile. The resulting fire burned for nearly two hours before it was brought under control shortly after 10 a.m.

Witnesses said eight bodies were thrown clear of the wreckage. A ninth was pulled from the smoldering cockpit section.

Although the Navy announced that nine were killed in the crash, witnesses said a search was being made for a 10th body in the scattered wreckage.

Identification of the dead was withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Chemist Named To Direct U. S. Science Speedup

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has selected a 57-year-old chemist to help its campaign to match Soviet science and technology.

"My feet are already under the desk," Dr. Wallace R. Brode told reporters yesterday minutes after his swearing in.

Dr. Brode, for 20 years a chemistry professor at Ohio State University, is the new science adviser in the State Department. The post has languished, unfilled for two years, partly because of U. S. smugness over being the No. 1 scientific country in the world, partly because of a desire to keep the budget well trimmed.

Five Billion Hike Sought By Anderson

Senate And House Committees Get Secretary Request

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration today asked Congress to boost the 275 billion dollars limit on the national debt to 280 billion dollars.

Secretary of the Treasury Robert Anderson asked for the five billion dollar boost in letters to Democratic and Republican leaders of the House Ways and Means and Senate Finance committees. Those are the committees which would handle such legislation.

On Temporary Basis
Anderson submitted a draft of suggested legislation that would make the increase effective on a temporary basis from the date of enactment through June 30, 1959.

The national debt, subject to the ceiling limitation, stood at $274,250,766,583.28 on Jan. 9, or just less than three-quarters of a billion dollars under the limit.

There had been an indication in President Eisenhower's budget message yesterday that the administration would ask for an increase in the ceiling.

Eisenhower's message said that the present limit of 275 billion dollars is too restrictive in view of rising defense expenditures and of the need for more flexibility to permit efficient and economical debt management.

Eisenhower Message Shows Dark Outlook

WASHINGTON (AP)—The spectre of deficit spending and continued high taxes haunted Capitol Hill today in the wake of President Eisenhower's peacetime record $73,900,000,000 federal budget proposal.

Congressional reaction, both public and private, was that the fiscal picture painted by the President in his annual budget message yesterday was anything but bright. But Congress had not expected a rosy report in the light of current defense needs.

There was little doubt that Congress would approve all or most of the $73,900,000,000 outlay for the Defense Department. More argument was expected over non-defense spending proposals in an effort to widen the narrow gap between expected spending and expected revenue during the coming fiscal year.

Even as it put the finishing touches on an emergency $1,260,000,000 defense fund, a House Defense Appropriations subcommittee called hearings for Jan. 27 on the military budget for the year starting July 1.

Subcommittee Chairman Mahon (D-Tex.) called the new military budget "conservative insofar as ballistic missiles and other weapons of the future are concerned." It might even have to be increased, Mahon added.

Rain General In East Area

By The Associated Press
Arctic air fanned across the northern Plains today, stirring snow storms along its leading edge and bringing temperatures to below freezing levels.

In the southeast, widespread rain brought warmer temperatures. The rain doused portions of Florida and fell along the Atlantic Coast north to Pennsylvania. Another rain area covered the Gulf states from Mississippi eastward and extended into portions of the Ohio Valley. There was also a patch of light rain along the north Pacific.

Hoopla Marks Jayne's Wedding

Hysterical Fans Storm Church During Ceremony

(Photofax on Page 14)

By JAMES BACON
PORTUGUESE BEND, Calif.

—Jayne Mansfield, who yearned for a quiet wedding, was married last night to Mickey Hargitay with all the hoopla of a Fourth of July picnic.

Some 1,500 fans, mostly teenagers but some adults carrying babies in arms, screamed and shouted outside the Wayfarers Chapel during the most tender moments of the nondenominational rites.

Someone even bounced a rock off the top of the all-glass church, while photographers, who nearly outnumbered guests, kept banging their cameras against the glass walls.

Just as Jayne and Mickey were whispering their "I do's," more than 100 teen-agers stormed up a steep hill shouting like a Marine landing party, but a cordon of police pushed them back.

She never heard the yelling. "All I heard was Mickey saying 'I do,'" she giggled.

Bob Hope, who witnessed the wedding certificate, and actress Marie Windsor were the only Hollywood names who traveled the 30 miles to this remote and lonely site by the Pacific Ocean.

"I feel wonderful," said the husky Hungarian-born bridegroom, "although I was sitting on needles most of the time."

The voluptuous bride started down the aisle. She had spent a good 20 minutes posing for photographers on her arrival—even before changing into the 12 yards of pink Brussels lace that was her wedding gown.

After the rites, Jayne and Mickey returned to the church and posed at the altar for the regiment of photographers.

The 29-year-old bridegroom and his 24-year-old bride took off for International Airport to board a plane for Dallas, Tex.

Heart Attack Ends Career Of Lasky, Movie Pioneer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A heart attack has ended the career of Jesse L. Lasky, movie pioneer who helped build Hollywood's vast film industry.

Lasky, 77, a moviemaker 44 years, collapsed and died in Beverly Hills yesterday shortly after talking about his book, "I Blow My Own Horn," before a women's literary club.

The producer, apparently in good health up to that moment, stumbled and fell as he turned to walk toward his car at the Beverly Hilton Hotel. Only a day earlier he had attended the annual Pro Bowl professional football game in Los Angeles.

Sarah Churchill Denies Being Drunk, Profane

LOS ANGELES—Actress Sarah Churchill, red-haired daughter of the British statesman, is slated to be arraigned in Justice Court at Malibu Beach Thursday on a charge of being drunk in public view.

Miss Churchill, jailed five hours yesterday, has denied the charge, saying she intends to plead innocent.

Sheriff's deputies said they were called to the Malibu home of the 44-year-old actress on a complaint by the General Telephone Co. that she used profane and obscene language over the phone.

The company asserted the language was used in calls to several persons, including one with a phone company employee.

The deputies said Miss Churchill greeted them with, "What the hell do you want?" and that they found kitchen curtains torn down, lipstick smeared on the refrigerator and contents of her purse scattered.

The officers said they took the daughter of Sir Winston Churchill to a station only after she had climbed into their car holding a glass of rum and resisted their efforts to get her out.

At a station, they related, it took two male officers and a man in a tuxedo to subdue her. One deputy's shirt was torn.

Later at the county jail, Miss Churchill, in a pensive mood, quoted from Robert Burns:

"In durance vile here must I wake and weep

"And all my frowzy couch in sorrow steep"

But she was released from "durance vile" on $50 bond furnished by her attorney Robert J. Gottlieb, who told newsmen: "Miss Churchill says the officers who arrested her pinned her arms and slapped her face. She was only trying to protect herself."

The slim actress, dressed in blue capri pants, silk blouse and tan sweater, denied she had been drinking but said she often used the telephone, adding: "That's what it's for."

She had worn an ill-fitting jail

British Ship Sends Urgent Distress Call

OBAN, Scotland—The 750-ton British naval vessel Barcombe sent out an urgent radio distress signal last night and then fell silent. Hours later rescue craft probed through darkness and heavy seas had failed to find the ship.

The Barcombe is a boom defense vessel, a type which operates harbor boom defenses during wartime. It normally carries a crew of 32.

The distress signal said: "Need assistance immediately. Believe I am aground in position 55.10 north and 06.15 west." The position would place the ship on the shore of Oronsay Island, off the west coast of Argyll. But neither the Islay lifeboat nor shore searchers could find her.

An admiralty spokesman said: "It may be that she has had radio trouble or possibly that something worse has happened to her."

smock during her booking earlier, at which time she commented: "So this is American justice. At least it takes two stalwarts to hold me."

She then held up two fingers in the "V" for victory sign made famous by her father in World War II.

She was booked under the name of Sarah Beauchamp, which was the name of her late husband, society photographer Anthony Beauchamp. Friends said Miss Churchill had been emotionally upset since his suicide in London last August. The couple had been estranged.

The actress, here for a series of television appearances, was slated to appear today in a live telecast of NBC's Matinee Theater, portraying a Hungarian dancer in an hourlong drama entitled "The Makropoulos Secret."

Truman Proposes Session In U. S.

NEW YORK—Former President Truman proposed today that any summit meeting to ease world tensions be held in the United States.

He noted that three American presidents had made long trips to confer with heads of foreign states.

"It's about time they came over here," Truman told newsmen during his morning stroll. "I told Stalin that if he wanted to see me any more he would have to come over here."

Ike Wants To Prevent Russ Cheating

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON—This is an A-B-C on the thousands of words President Eisenhower and Russian Premier Bulganin wrote each other in the past month. Their subject: How to have a summit conference to talk peace and disarmament.

A conference still looks far off because they don't agree on how to have it.

Bulganin wants a meeting at the top, period. Eisenhower is cool toward it unless there is adequate preparation. For example: a meeting of foreign ministers.

But this is a basic stumbling block to any agreement on disarmament. This country insists there must first be agreement on a foolproof inspection system to prevent cheating. The Russians haven't agreed.

Bulganin wrote Eisenhower Dec. 10 and again Jan. 9. The second letter covered pretty much the same ground as the first, with a few additions. Eisenhower's letter, delivered to Moscow Jan. 12, was a reply to Bulganin's first letter.

Asked Nuclear Ban

Bulganin insisted Dec. 10: The United States, Britain and

Russia should refrain from using nuclear weapons; the United States and its European NATO allies should sign a nonaggression pact with Russia and its satellites in the Warsaw alliance; the United States and Russia should pledge themselves not to interfere in the Middle East and to renounce the use of force to settle Middle East problems; and the United States and Russia should sign a treaty of friendship and cooperation.

Eisenhower replied: All those points were already implicitly agreed to in the charter of the United Nations in which the United States, Russia and all the others are members. If all sides lived up to the charter, there's no problem.

Bulganin proposed: The United States, Britain and Russia suspend nuclear tests for two or three years; a substantial cut in armed forces and armaments; a complete ban on nuclear weapons; discontinuance of their manufacture; destruction of nuclear stockpiles.

Eisenhower said he'd go along on all these—and even suggested an indefinite suspension of nuclear tests—if it was a tremendous if. He'd go along, Eisenhower said, if there was a foolproof inspection system.

These are Bulganin proposals which Eisenhower didn't answer: 1. Withdrawal of foreign armed forces from the territories of all countries. (This would require the United States to abandon all those overseas bases used for its bomber fleets which are this country's best deterrent against Russian aggression.)

2. Scrap the present NATO and Warsaw alliances and substitute a collective security agreement. (This would mean breaking up of this country's alliances with its NATO partners, alliances it has worked long and hard to preserve as a defense against Russia.)

3. A curb on the "present propaganda" in press and radio. Bulganin also suggested: 1. No nuclear weapons be placed in East or West Germany or in Poland or Czechoslovakia. (This country wants West Germany armed as a vital part of Western defense.)

Eisenhower replied that keeping such a small area de-nuclearized wouldn't mean much since Bulganin himself had pointed out that no country anywhere, large or small, is any longer safe from destruction by missiles.

2. Restoration of normal trade between this country and Russia. Eisenhower said this was all right with him so long as the trade did not include materials that could be used for war-making.

Then Eisenhower proposed steps Bulganin didn't mention in his Dec. 10 letter:

Strengthening the U.N. by eliminating the American and Russian veto against the Security Council's efforts to settle disputes peacefully; the pointed out Russia has used the veto 82 times in the U.N.; an agreement to use outer space only for peaceful purposes; measures to prevent surprise attacks.

And Eisenhower suggested two steps which Russia almost certainly wouldn't buy. He proposed: The Soviets let Germany be re-united and permit the satellites, all now with Communist governments, to have free elections to choose their governments.

In his Jan. 9 letter Bulganin mentioned the proposal against surprise attack made by Eisenhower. The Russian suggested aerial inspection for a distance of up to 500 miles behind the front lines of both sides' military forces.

But in this same Jan. 9 letter Bulganin made his ideas about a summit conference look more like a frolic or jamboree than a serious meeting by suggesting that almost every European head of state take part, along with the leaders of India, Egypt, Afghanistan and Red China.

Chaplin Son Jailed

HOLLYWOOD (INS)—Charles Spencer Chaplin Jr., son of the famed comedian Charlie Chaplin, was arrested today on a drunk driving charge.

Cop Killer Gets Panicky And Surrenders To FBI

CHICAGO—A panicky gunman—hunted by nearly every cop in the city for the slaying of a fellow patrolman—surrendered to the FBI last night, saying he feared he "was going to be shot on sight."

George Starcevic, 23, his hair combed carefully into a ducktail, turned himself in to the FBI and then was turned over to Chicago police.

When newsmen asked about his surrender, he snarled: "Do you know how hot them streets are?"

All day long, the streets were alive with patrols searching for Starcevic, implicated by a companion in the fatal shooting of Patrolman John Quirk, 23, early yesterday.

Starcevic's companion Nick LaPapa Jr., 23, was seized at a hospital where he sought medical attention for a hand injury he said he suffered when he broke a pitcher. Police said he later admitted the wound was inflicted in the Quirk slaying and implicated Starcevic.

From admissions by Starcevic and LaPapa, police constructed this account: The pair forced their way into Quirk's parked car on the near North Side and got into the back seat. They forced the off-duty patrolman and his date Caroline Smith, 18, a student of modeling, to give up money and jewels.

Then LaPapa ordered Quirk to drive around the neighborhood and pull into an alley. In an apparently desperate gamble to foil the gunmen, Quirk rammed his car into a parked car, whipped out a pistol and started shooting. The gunmen returned fire and

Debra Paget, David Street Wedding Set

HOLLYWOOD—Singer David Street, who married and divorced his fourth wife, dancer Sharon Lee, within the last month, is marrying actress Debra Paget today.

Street, 37, said his marriage to Miss Lee was "on the spur of the moment and we knew it was a mistake immediately."

He and Miss Paget haven't had a formal date and their romance began only four days ago while they watched a television late show. They have known each other, however, since 1945. Street said this is not an impetuous courtship.

"I know this is the right one this time," he explained.

This will be the first marriage for Miss Paget, 24, who has seldom been seen in public without her mother Mrs. Margaret Gibson.

NEW YORK—Steels, aircrafts and airlines made good progress as the stock market resumed its advance early today in moderately active trading.

Governor Spares Slayer; Commutes Term To Life

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. McKeldin today spared Alvin Herbert Braxton, 18-year-old slayer of a Baltimore policeman, from a scheduled death in the Maryland Penitentiary gas chamber Friday.

In commuting the sentence to life imprisonment, McKeldin said Braxton's crime justified the death penalty but added:

"It is my feeling that the ends justify the means and that the ends justify the means."

He said it was obvious there are mental and emotional deficiencies in Braxton's mind, which caused him to fight against the state and to fight against the state.

He had just turned 17 when he was arrested and two companions were killed.

The governor, who has commuted 13 death sentences and permitted only four executions since taking office in 1951, again spoke out against Maryland's "archaic, judicially established, definition of legal sanity."

This provides that if a psychiatric test shows a person can distinguish right from wrong he is legally sane. Braxton was thus determined sane by Dr. Manfred Guttmacher, chief medical officer of the Supreme Bench of Baltimore City, prior to his trial.

He was sentenced to death by Judge James K. Cullen, and the Maryland Court of Appeals, which does not have authority to change a sentence in a criminal case, found no legal error in his trial or conviction.

"Although the mental makeup, youth and background of Braxton have no legal significance in determining the fact of his guilt, these factors can, and in my opinion should, be considered in fixing his punishment," McKeldin said.

He said a careful study of Braxton's background showed him to be "the tragic product of a broken home and an unsupervised youth under circumstances of extreme poverty."

He said Braxton's father deserted the family just before Braxton, the youngest of five children was born. Older brothers and sisters set the youth "a uniformly bad example" and he was allowed to roam the streets from the age of 15, equipped only with the mind and emotional makeup of a child, McKeldin said.

Dump Truck Mishap Kills Denton Man

DENTON, Md. (AP)—Thomas E. Harris, 29, of Denton, was killed yesterday when he was crushed between the body and chassis of a dump truck.

The accident occurred on Maryland 313 about two miles north of here as Harris and Fred Bilbrough, also of Denton, were dumping a load of lime at a warehouse.

State Trooper Donald E. Weir said the body of the truck had stuck after opening about one-third the way. Weir said Bilbrough was under the truck trying to repair the hydraulic system and Harris was leaning between the body and the chassis when the body fell on him.

LaVale PTA Plans New Brownie Troop

A new Brownie Girl Scout Troop, designated as No. 64, has been invested at LaVale School, Miss Olive Hurlburt, scout executive, said yesterday. Fifteen Brownies and three leaders received their pins and were officially inducted into scouting.

The leaders, who completed their leadership training just before the Christmas holidays, are Mrs. Thomas Seymour, Mrs. Paul Buchanan, and Mrs. Kenneth Wolf. The troop is sponsored by LaVale School Parent-Teacher Association, with Mrs. Lonnie Twigg, Mrs. George Crowe and Mrs. Francis Martin, members of the troop committee.

At the investiture, the Brownies gave a choral reading in poetry, telling the story of the Brownie program. The troop will meet each Friday at 3:30 p. m. at LaVale School.

Citizen Group Urged To Help Decide Felon's Fate

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. McKeldin today proposed creation of a board of citizen experts to help share the burden a Maryland governor now carries alone in deciding whether a criminal should die.

He also wished again publicly that the Legislature would vest in the Court of Appeals the same authority of review in capital cases it now has in those of a non-criminal nature.

The observations were made as McKeldin commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence of 18-year-old Alvin Herbert Braxton. It was the 13th time he has differed with a trial judge in a capital punishment case since taking office in January 1951. He has let four death sentences stand.

McKeldin expressed the opinion that the trial court, as in some previous instances, did not have under consideration pertinent facts outside the question of legal guilt in deciding punishment. He referred primarily to psychological and sociological factors which he said have important bearing on the case.

Under Maryland law, the only such requirement for passing a death sentence is a sanity test which is solely to determine if a person is capable of distinguishing right from wrong.

Air Force Sentry Has Golden Bite

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Buddy, German Shepherd sentry at Davis-Monthan Air Force Base, is expected to tear a man apart if the proper occasion arises.

So, when Buddy's teeth began troubling him, he was taken to a dentist.

Buddy now has two gold crowns on his choppers, and base officials estimate he's good for another five years of service.

Hebron Backed By McKeldin

BALTIMORE (AP)—Gov. McKeldin has reaffirmed his "complete faith" in Baltimore Police Commissioner James M. Hebron, and expressed doubt about the need for giving control of Hebron's department to a public board.

That and other recommendations for changes were made by the grand jury which recently completed an investigation of the department. Two top police officers were indicted by the jury for malfeasance of office and other charges.

The governor said today he would "make no definite comment" on the grand jury recommendations until he could study them thoroughly.

OUR COUNTRY

The union of hearts, the union of hands and the flag of our Union forever.—Morris.

Not A Cure-All

GEN. MARSHALL, testifying before a congressional committee half a dozen years ago, offered this observation on his countrymen: "Americans regard as a stalemate any problem arising in the morning and not settled by afternoon." As a serious proposition this may be arguable. But the point, perhaps, is that many in and out of this country would be found arguing for its soundness. There may be some such trait of national character at work now in our approach to the missile-satellite problem and our evident lag in scientific education.

WE ARE DISTRESSED over our position relative to the Soviet Union. We want something done about it. Nothing wrong with that, obviously. We'd be in pretty bad shape if we weren't upset and didn't care whether or not we got action. But there is a danger that the call for action will be expressed too much in terms of demands for more money. Many seem to think that if we simply dip deeper into the government's pocketbook, that will take care of everything quickly and we can go back to our usual concerns. So the cries have mounted from every quarter: We must spend more for defense, for education, for labor training, etc., if we are going to meet the Russian challenge.

A GREATLY unfortunate consequence of this approach is that it opens the door wide to the countless pressure groups which want to get or keep berths at the government trough. It could be something like real wartime, when the mere mention of the magic word "defense" was sufficient to loosen the federal purse strings for many a dubious enterprise. Some additional spending does indeed seem called for, especially in defense and education. But the watchdogs ought to be unusually alert. Whatever the Soviet Sputniks should spur us to do, they should not induce us to embark on a spending spree as a cure-all for every problem we face.

Brighter Picture

SO MUCH OF THE talk about U.S. education is gloomy stuff that it is good once in a while to be able to sound a cheerful note. The National Industrial Conference Board, in one of its pictorial charts, shows that educational levels in the American labor force have been definitely on the rise in the last two decades. In 1940, just 13.4 per cent of the then much smaller total labor force (ages 18 to 64) had attended college, with only 6.4 per cent graduating. By March of 1957 the percentage had climbed to 18, with graduates comprising 9.2 per cent. The proportion of the labor force taking high school training was 38.4 per cent in 1940, with 20.3 per cent as graduates. Last March the figure had risen to 50.3 per cent and the graduate total was 30.5 per cent. Breakdowns of the work force show that among the college trained people professional and technical jobs bulk largest — more than 63 per cent. But those with no more than high school training tend to find employment in skilled and semi-skilled labor, clerical and sales jobs, service trades, farming. Only 6.8 per cent qualified for professional or technical work. Not a word in this report, of course, about the content of this education. But at least more people in the labor force are getting it.

On The Highway

SOMEWHAT less than two years ago, Congress enacted the most comprehensive highway legislation in our history. Its feature was a $27 billion outlay over a 13-year span for a 41,000-mile interstate traffic network. Basically the program is making pretty good progress, considering that the early stages of planning and preparation are necessarily the slowest. Eight states are behind schedule, but some 40 are on or ahead of schedule in the spending of allotted funds. The astonishing news is, however, that the program will cost $37 billion, a hike of $10 billion over original estimates. Inflation and unforeseen outlays for extras explain the boost. At this rate, full speed would seem to be the most practical pace for the program, as quickly as that can be managed. The race with costs is not likely to end today.

Striped Toothpaste For Kiddy Trade

NEW YORK — "This," said the man with the toothpaste smile from the toothpaste company, "will be even bigger than chlorophyll."

He squirted a tube of toothpaste at a piece of white paper and proclaimed:

"Striped toothpaste!"

He allowed a respectful 30 seconds for admiration of the red-and-white striped smear. Then he pushed forward a small, gray-haired man with glasses and said:

"This is the inventor-Leonard L. Marraffino."

THE INVENTOR of striped toothpaste smiled weakly.

"Hello," he said. "Tell her about it," prodded the toothpaste company man, "how you worked on it for years, how everyone said it couldn't be done — but you did it!"

"Well," said Marraffino gingerly, "it wasn't easy."

"No, indeed," echoed the company man. "Why people have been trying for 50 or 60 years to put a stripe on toothpaste. We were floored when Mr. Marraffino walked in with it. Now, tell her all about it."

MARRAFFINO, a 50-year-old printer who looked as if he'd much rather be back among the presses, cleared his throat and recounted the saga of striped toothpaste.

"It was sort of a do-it-yourself thing," he explained. "Someone asked me to print a label like a red and white peppermint stick and I thought how I like peppermint and I didn't like the taste of toothpaste and why didn't they make peppermint stick toothpaste and then I thought why not make it look like a peppermint stick too and then I wondered how you could and then I couldn't stop until I figured it out."

THE FIGURING took three years, $12,000 and about 1,000 manhours in a grocery store cellar in Mt. Vernon, New York.

"People laughed and said it couldn't be done," noted Marraffino mildly. "I tried everything—cardboard spirals and brushes inside the tube, metal inserts and finally a plastic insert with grooves to hold the red."

"That did it, but it took three more years to get it patented. Then I was going to manufacture some toothpaste myself but a friend of mine had a brother-in-law in this ad agency that handled this toothpaste company and he said why not try them so I did."

THE TOOTHPASTE company, which correctly figured there was cash in anything calculated to make children brush their teeth, promptly went wild over Marraffino's striped toothpaste. They put it on sale in Harrisburg, Peoria and San Diego, counted up the results and decided to launch it nationally.

"We calculate it will be one of the four top brands sold in 1958," said the toothpaste official cheerfully. "That means maybe a fourth of a $210,000,000 market."

That also means Marraffino can be very forgiving to all the people who laughed at striped toothpaste. With a percentage coming from every tube sold, the do-it-yourselfer is going to have the last laugh all the way to the bank.

"BUT I'M NOT giving up the printing business," he said firmly. "I've been in that since I was fourteen."

"It sure is nice, though, to have people ask me for some of my toothpaste, and I get a big boost out of going into stores and buying it."

For himself? "Well no," blushed the inventor of striped toothpaste. "I've got false teeth."

Civil Rights Cool; Missiles Hot Issue

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Russian Sputniks and missiles have pushed the U. S. civil rights controversy well into the background, insofar as the new session of Congress is concerned.

Moderates think this is a good thing. They are willing to let the situation cool off a little before taking any next steps.

They have noted with satisfaction that new Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers says he will have no additional civil rights legislation to offer at this session.

They are willing to let the newly created assistant attorney general for civil rights and the new Civil Rights Commission, created by last year's legislation, see what they can do.

Rep. Brooks Hays — who was a leader in trying to get the Little Rock high school integration fight settled last September — plans to introduce a resolution in the House. It would require the Civil Rights Commission to make a study of all civil rights cases and report to Congress.

There may be some question whether the Commission has authority to go into the subjects of the Hays proposal. Under the civil rights legislation as finally passed by Congress, the Commission is limited to questions of voting rights.

A SPRINKLING of other bills dealing with aftermaths of the Little Rock case were introduced in the new Congress on opening day. They indicate the extreme positions of northern and southern congressmen on enforcement of civil rights cases.

Rep. Kenneth B. Keating introduced a bill which would prohibit the use of National Guard troops to obstruct the enforcement of any federal law or court order.

Rep. Arthur Winstead introduced a bill which would limit the use of federal troops to enforce federal laws or court orders and a companion bill to prohibit calling the National Guard into federal service except in time of war or on request of a state.

Rep. John Dingell has proposed an amendment to restore Section 111 to the civil rights legislation. This would give the attorney general power to seek court injunctions for enforcing civil rights.

Rep. Adam Clayton Powell wants to tack an anti-segregation amendment on all aid to education bills.

But none of these measures is expected to gain much headway in the new Congress.

HANGING over from the last session of Congress is a bill introduced by Sen. James O. Eastland reserving to the states exclusive rights to legislate on education and morals. Other bills introduced by Sen. Strom Thurmond and several southern representatives would limit Supreme Court jurisdiction on state education.

But there is no indication now that any of these bills will be pushed in the new session of Congress.

Returning congressmen say that it is remarkable how attitudes on civil rights have calmed down in the last few months.

In the final weeks of the last session of Congress, when civil rights legislation was being debated in the Senate, few people could discuss the subject rationally.

Then in September when the Little Rock incident was at its height, tempers on both sides flared beyond all control.

TODAY there is more restraint. One factor, according to Representative Hays, is a growing realization all through the south that the Little Rock incident hurt the United States internationally.

Another point of view reported by many ministers to Representative Hays in his capacity as president of the Southern Baptist Convention, is that some kind of an incident to dramatize school integration was inevitable.

It is now considered fortunate that it happened in Arkansas. Relatively moderate sentiment has prevailed there.

If it had happened in any of five other southern states, it would have meant the closing of public schools under state law. Through mass resistance, it might have resulted in worse violence.

Passage of time has cleared up one other aspect of the Little Rock incident. It is now recognized that the new federal civil rights legislation was no factor at all in what happened there — not even psychologically.

Glancing Sideways

NEW YORK.—I think this is a good day, filled with sunshine and wine-like air, to talk plainly and directly about a facet of the theatre of New York.

The facet is a relatively young man with a blazing talent for writing, a magic gift for imagery, and a dedication to the longest, most tormented gallery of human monsters our times have seen.

It seems to me fair and just to ask: how long will this authentic and gigantic talent preoccupy itself with degenerates, weird misfits, mental cripples and pathetic idiots?

SPRINGBOARD for this question is the new brace of short plays by Mr. Williams, "Something Unspoken" and "Suddenly Last Summer," which had their premiere at a new off-Broadway theatre, the York.

They concern themselves with principal characters difficult to describe in a newspaper, and take in such areas as perversion, cannibalism, prefrontal lobotomy and sadism.

The first play concerns a haughty New Orleans dowager and her association with a mousy, strange little female secretary she has housed for 15 years. It is Mr. Williams' skill that he never once labels the association, but it is perfectly clear to anyone more than 11 years old.

The second concerns a 40-year-old, wealthy dilettante poet who in a seaport in Spain is murdered by beach boys wielding the edges of tin cans and then cannibalizing him. I trust not too many will put me down for a Victorian ninny, stuffy as an owl, if the second, at least, seemed too shocking.

IT IS NOT either of the themes which causes thought, however. It is this constant, long-lasting preoccupation with sordid and monstrous human beings.

In "The Glass Menagerie," we had a real cripple, an added, dream-world mother. In "A Street Car Named Desire," we had fairly odious folk in odious surroundings saying and performing odious things. In "Cat On A Hot Tin Roof," we had a doubtful man, a weird woman, a dreadful father, a grasping son and again a somewhat addled mother. In "Orpheus Descending," which was last season's failure, we had a tramp turncoat and a store-bound female furnace, a crippled husband and sadistic neighbors, sadistic both in deed and word.

In the present and new two playlets, we have a gallery of gutter individuals — greedy, daffy, sadistic, perverted, cannibal-istic and a few other defects not easily to be described.

MR. WILLIAMS has said, recently, that these two he hopes are his last obsessions. He confesses that he is undergoing analysis, believes it will be successful and will rid him of obsessive creation of malformed, malwilled, malsouled animals in the guise of people.

We all hope so, too. For the clear fact is that in the department of writing, the putting together of words that sing and soar and shimmer, we have no talent like his. He writes magnificently.

His words tumble and swoop and fly high. They are words of prose poetry, images of beauty. When he has a character describe a hot seaport in Spain, you feel the heat. You know that it has weight, can crush, broil, and destroy.

WALKING back to my office in the falling snow the other night, with few on the street and a kind of loneliness in the storm, leading to thought and consideration, it occurred to me that there was nothing as easy as wilfulness in Mr. Williams' parade of demons.

I think he is more of an artist than deliberately to strew his stages with repulsive humanity. I do think — or did, walking along in the snow — that perhaps he puts these vile creatures before us in the hope and intent of kindling our compassion for them. This has not been an exploded idea. Perhaps he is saying: "I know they are vile and terrible, but many are like these and let us not throw stones at them or blanket them with thoughtless contempt. They are no less human for being monsters. They deserve pity and kindness."

I DON'T KNOW. I really don't. It was a thought, a possibility. I do not know Mr. Williams well enough to detect this exactly. I don't know any of this any more than I can understand his intense interest in perverted characters.

The two new plays team with perversion. It is there, never expressed in plain language — but there. The poet in the second play had to have been the most lost kind of pervert. Nothing else explained him or what happened to him. The women in the first play are without dimension or reason if they, too, are not perverted. But he never allows his writing to so identify them.

One hopes that he means his wish to undergo analysis and escape from his demons. He is too powerful a writer to dismiss: (McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Times Surely Do Change

WASHINGTON—Seldom do you hear from Truman Fair Dealers any more. Roosevelt New Dealers are almost extinct.

Dean Acheson made the news the other night when he slipped on the ice behind his house in Georgetown—an old-timey section of the city favored by New and Fair Dealers both—and broke his hip. Ex-Secretary of State Acheson could be characterized as more of a Fair than a New.

So it was that I made a special point of being on hand when a genuine New Dealer, by the name of Robert R. Nathan, emerged from Georgetown to tell the House Ways and Means Committee what he thought the government should do about taxes. I hadn't seen him in years.

HE STILL WAS the big, husky, black-haired citizen with the deep bass voice who made headlines here 20 years ago. What he had to say brought back memories. The list of jobs Nathan held under the New Deal was a long one, mostly with alphabetical agencies now almost forgotten. His specialty was economics and his voice was heard whenever New Deal changes were in the wind.

Now he's functioning privately as a consulting economist and serving as national chairman of Americans for Democratic Action. A I understand it, this organization is composed largely of the aging young men who once followed so enthusiastically the leadership of Mr. Roosevelt.

NATHAN told the lawgivers that he did believe our tax system is good as is, treading lightly on the poor and socking the rich. He didn't use these words, of course, and he said now that we seem to be in the initial throes of a business recession, he'd urge a temporary tax cut for low-paid Americans.

He'd wait three or four months to see whether our anti-Sputnik rocket-building program starts business booming; if it doesn't, then he'd slash taxes for low income workers. They're the ones who reasonably can be expected to spend their money for things, instead of investing it in stocks and bonds.

HE ALSO believes Congress would be wise to spend a great many more billions on education, mental health, urban development, social security and foreign aid, and he's not worrying where the money's coming from.

"To those who say that these measures would unbalance the budget, I can only answer, I hope so," said Nathan.

He said it looked to him like the budget would be unbalanced anyway, and why not do it on purpose? "I'd prefer an unbalanced budget to recession and unemployment," he said.

He called the present business situation "the George Humphrey recession," and he said the trouble was that big business spent too much money building new factories to make more stuff faster than the people could afford to buy it.

THE LAWGIVERS listened courteously, but they weren't exactly enthusiastic.

"I disagree," said Representative Thomas B. Curtis. Representative Herman T. Eberharter said he didn't think this was the time to cut taxes for anybody. The other lawgivers didn't even ask Nathan any questions. Times, I guess, do change.

Just Talk?

EVER SINCE Sputnik was launched, we have heard and read about the ineffectiveness of American education. Not a day passes but we hear and read more of the same. But the question is: Will this all be mere talk?

What has been done to improve American education? What is going to be done? And considering education, we should think of more than children and the youth. Many adults in America could well stand more education.

The Kremlin has launched an all-out offensive to become the dominating influence in the entire under-industrialized world. Today, the Russian targets are in Asia and Africa. Tomorrow, the target will be Latin America. Merely in order to meet the Russian offensive, the American citizenry needs to give itself more education. An intelligent and informed citizenry is needed now.

There are endless tasks to be performed, and vast resources of untapped intelligence in America. An improvement and expansion of adult education should also be inaugurated now. If adults lack knowledge and the thirst for knowledge, how can they be an inspiration to children? If a stronger mental, cultural, intellectual climate is not generated now, how can we expect to improve our educational system?

To date, a major reaction to Sputnik has been one of talk. Days are slipping by, and there are few signs of change in America. We have not as yet fully drawn the lessons which should have been revealed by Sputnik. We do not have unlimited time to do so.

Reporter's Notebook

NEW YORK—David Selznick today offered Hollywood an answer to its problems.

"The solution is to pray," he said grimly.

The veteran producer feels too many movie makers still underestimate the extent of the revolution free television inspired in the motion picture industry, and are unprepared for the next revolution—television.

Selznick, who turned out two of the top ten box office draws in "Gone With the Wind" and "Duel in the Sun," feels he has a candidate for his third Academy Award in "Farewell to Arms."

He spent more than four million dollars dramatizing the Ernest Hemingway classic —his first film in nine years.

"INCREASINGLY, the future will lie in the big film," said Selznick, a big man fond of big gestures.

"The economics of the industry has become such that it can't afford to make average pictures any more. They can't compete with free TV offerings.

"It isn't enough to say that bigness alone will do, however. There is a gigantic market for picture epics, but the mediocre product, large or small, no longer has a chance.

"The public is so desperately anxious for what it wants to see—but what it wants to see is quality."

Pacing up and down his hotel suite in a gray flannel bathrobe—half a block off Madison Avenue—the producer continued: "You used to be able to produce 'X' number of pictures, and a large profit on a few. It was like packaging sardines."

"It wasn't an industry then. It isn't now. Today you're in show business."

"The next revolution will be pay TV, when a picture may take in as much as ten million dollars in a single night. And theater owners, instead of fighting pay TV as they did free TV, had better start moving in on it now to get their share. Otherwise, they'll suffer greatly."

SELZNICK feels the public is hungry for new favorites, and there will never be as many stars as the public is willing to support.

"There are many skyrocketers in this field, but few stars," he said.

It has been estimated that the world public has paid more than a billion dollars to see Selznick's pictures. Chary of naming the greatest stars active today—"after all I have to deal with these people"—the producer has no hesitation in naming his all-time candidates for top rank.

"There has never been anybody to equal Chaplin," he said, "and nobody to equal Garbo."

Washington Scene

WASHINGTON—If there is one pastime I like better than another it is to attend a joint session of Congress when the President is delivering a State of the Union message. Under fewer other circumstances are so many entertaining little episodes crowded into such a short space of time. Let me regale you with some samples:

Vice President Nixon and the Senate marched into the House chamber in a collectively-impressive body, although some of the individual bodies weren't so striking. They were followed by the cabinet. Senator Warren Magnuson, of Washington, found himself in a front row seat a ping-pong pop away from Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

SENATOR MAGNUSON smiled at Secretary Dulles and got the snoot. He tried again, and was again ignored. Finally Magnuson turned to the highly-placed colleague who was sitting next to him and said worriedly:

"Secretary Dulles' eyesight must be failing. He can't see me."

"That's strange," the highly-placed colleague who was sitting next to him agreed, "considering that only yesterday you called for his resignation."

Later Senator Magnuson had this eerie comment to make on Mr. Eisenhower's message:

"The President's enunciation of policy to the world was so good that even Dulles applauded."

The State of the Union atmosphere seemed to demonstrate beyond peradventure that no matter what has befallen, they still like Ike. The Republicans like Ike. The Democrats like Ike—although one of the most violently anti-administration of the latter offered this amendment:

"They still like Ike—and they only wish they could afford him."

COPIES OF THE President's message were not available until about fifteen minutes before he began delivering it. This reduced to utter misery the press secretaries of Members of Congress because they couldn't sit down and write their boss' reaction to the speech until they had seen it. As a consequence we had some very slow reactions. The State of the Union message began at 12:30, but it was later afternoon before some of the press secretaries had digested it sufficiently to have their employers react.

In fact, the ghost reactor for Rep. John Lesinski, of Michigan, apparently never got it digested, because Lesinski's office came out with this indigestibility:

"This is not the time for the present vaccination of inept dribble with persistent deviation from actuality."

Some of us thought Lesinski meant "drivel," but we were reassured it was "dribble." The Michigan Democrat may think that Ike has given up golf for basketball.

A well-known Democrat, who apparently thinks Dulles is to blame for everything, snarled to a corridor group that the Secretary of State should be sent up in the first manned space ship. Of all the people in the world, Senator George Malone, of Nevada, objected to this.

"We mustn't do a thing like that," declared the Senate's most vociferous administration-hater. "Dulles might land on a planet and commit us to fifty billion dollars before we can get him back."

New LaVale Post Office Bids Asked

Bids are being asked by the U. S. Post Office Department for the LaVale branch of the Cumberland Post Office, according to Postmaster Thomas F. Conlon Sr.

Specifications call for a new facility containing approximately 4,500 square feet of floor space, plus platform and maneuvering space of some 3,000 square feet. The department will enter into an agreement to lease such a building and area for 10 years with renewable options for five and/or 10 years.

Proposals will be accepted without heat, light and power and alternate proposals will be accepted with and without air conditioning.

Mr. Conlon said all proposals should be submitted to Postal Inspector A. E. Helmick, Post Office Box 1820, Washington 25, D. C. Either the Cumberland or Washington office will supply information regarding proposal forms, building specifications, lease provisions and other details, the postmaster said.

The closing date for submission of all proposals has been set by the department as February 15.

Police Boys Officials Meet With Directors Of YMCA To Discuss Using 'Y' Facilities

Officials of the Cumberland Police Boys Club met last night with the board of directors of Central YMCA to discuss the possibilities of the boys using facilities at the 'Y'.

The YMCA committee, headed by Dr. W. R. Allen, was appointed last week by Ernest B. Treat, president of the organization.

Officials of the boys club said the group had club rooms for meetings but needed better facilities to further its dance and boxing training programs. The boys club has no toilet or shower facilities at its present club room, it was pointed out.

It was suggested at the meeting that the possibility of the boys club entering basketball teams in the YMCA League and using the swimming pool for recreation purposes be looked into.

Members of the boys club said the group was not interested primarily in joining the YMCA program but hoped only to have use of some of the YMCA facilities if it was possible to work them into the organization's schedule.

Dr. Allen said after the meeting that it is hoped an emergency program can be worked out. Other YMCA officials pointed out that the "Y" hopes to work out something to go along in principle with the boys club.

The plight of the Police Boys Club was brought to light when the Mayor and City Council was asked last week if the building on Paca Street behind the West Side Fire Station might be used for club rooms.

The club has been using facilities at 117 North Centre Street

Carolyn Cook Heads Senior Girl Scout Unit

Carolyn Cook of Frostburg was elected president of the senior planning board of Cumberland Girl Scout Council, representing four senior Girl Scout troops. Other officers named at a meeting held at the Scout House on Greene Street were June Powers, vice president and Eileen Mitchell, secretary.

The board includes representatives of each of the area's four senior troops. Eileen Mitchell and June Powers are from Troop 12; Carolyn Cook and Susan Babcock are from Troop 54 in Frostburg; Lois Glessner represents Troop 15; and Sandra Roeder and Virginia Holzshu represents Troop 20.

The board accepted an invitation to attend a Girl Scout Senior Conference in Baltimore, March 28 and 29. Thirty-four girls plan to attend from this council. The conference is sponsored for Maryland Senior Scouts by the Senior Scouts of Baltimore.

Twenty-two Senior Girl Scouts have registered their interest in the National Senior Girl Scout

Round-Up to be held in Colorado Springs, Colo., in 1959. They plan to begin the special training reland Park, Mich., will be featured. The next meeting of the planning board will be held March 7 at 4 p. m. Mrs. Henry Robb is adviser to the board. Each troop will present a demonstration of the work of the Scout program now being done in its

Music, Arts Program Given At Woman's Civic Club House

A program on classical music was presented by the Music and Arts Club last night at the Woman's Civic Club House, with Mrs. Frank Stuart Rowe, hostess.

Mrs. Howard Irwin presided at the business session when plans for the state convention of the Maryland Federation of Music Clubs to be held here in April were discussed and a committee, comprised of Mrs. Monroe Harris, chairman, Miss Dorothy Wilfrance Pretzel, 125 Bedford road, and Mrs. Robert Bittie Street, Mrs. Daniel Klavuhn was appointed to map the summer camp scholarship, which the club will give.

Mrs. Fay Mansfield was chairman of the program, opening with the reading of a paper on the theme, "Miss Willson direct—sury balance of $34.72 and Mrs. on the hymn with Mrs. H. F. Clarence Stewart on the sunshine balance of $5.76; and Mrs. Harry Butler, contralto, man Curry on auditing.

Mrs. Harry Butler, contralto, man Curry on auditing. Mrs. Lawrence Miller was in soloist, singing two Schubert songs, "My Abode" and "The Double" and a recitative and aria from Handel's "Xerxes." Mrs. Carl Smith, Mrs. Roy Hinkle read the constitution and by-laws; and Mrs. Clarence Stewart gave the food and nutrition report and distributed recipes. On behalf of the club, Mrs. Stewart presented gifts to Mrs. Buser and Mrs. Naughton.

The Madrigal Singers, a group of eight composed of Miss Pauline House, Mrs. Robert Bittie, Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Macy, Robert Moreland and Emory Wallace, presented three numbers, "The Silver Swan," by Gibbons; "Now Start We With a Goodly Song," Hasler; and "Matona, Lovely Maiden," Lassus.

Refreshments were served by the assisting hostesses, Mrs. Richard W. Trevisan, Miss Ann Dorsey and Mrs. William L. Keller, with Mrs. Rowe pouring. The table was centered with an arrangement of heather and white mums, flanked with pink candles in silver candle holders.

Others attending were Mrs. Duke W. Burger, Mrs. Carl A. Sander, Mrs. Herbert Loar, Mrs. Robert Clarke, Mrs. John Zornig, Mrs. Dana McKinney, Mrs. Ivan Hall, Mrs. Samuel T. ## Japan Theme Of Program Melvin WSCS

"Japan Today" was the theme of the regular meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service at Melvin Methodist Church. Mrs. Emma Minke gave a talk on "New Year's in Japan" and led the group in prayer. The Scripture was read by Mrs. Irene Kennard. Following the singing of a song in the Japanese language, the following talks were given: "A Brief Look At Japan," by Jane Fier; "Christian Church Service in Japan," Mrs. Eleanor Delagrang; and "Children's Festivals in Japan," Mrs. Blanche Seip.

Mrs. Blanche Seip presided over the business session and routine reports were given by Mrs. B. F. Hartman, Mrs. Robert Street, Mrs. Delagrang, Mrs. Mary Smith and Mrs. Virginia Golden. A letter from a missionary to Japan, Miss Jenny Linn, was read by Mrs. Minke.

Mrs. Helen Northcraft spoke on the World Council of Church Women. Plans were made to hold a Pork and Sauerkraut Supper Thursday, January 30, beginning at 5 p. m., open to the public.

Concluding the meeting refreshments were served by Mrs. Delagrang and Mrs. Orvil Cooper, which featured the traditional Japanese tea and fortune cake, in carrying out the theme of the evening's program.

GOP Women Get Reports On Parties

The Women's Republican Club of Cumberland met last week at Central Y.M.C.A. with Mrs. John Lancaster presiding.

Reports were given of the card party in November, with Mrs. Walter Eyer and Mrs. George Barnard in charge, and on the Christmas dinner party by Mrs. James Orr and Mrs. Pearl Bachman, chairman.

Mrs. Edward Wilson and Mrs. Paul Rank were named co-chairmen for the February meeting, and Miss Effie George, Miss Mary Volk and Miss Ruth Screen will arrange the March meeting.

The social hour was in charge of Mrs. Harry Young and Mrs. [unclear] to Europe.

New Members Enrolled By B and O Groups

New members were accepted in the Baltimore and Ohio Veterans and Auxiliary at the regular meeting Wednesday evening, at the B and O YMCA.

At the veterans meeting Edgar T. Kolb, W. L. Corrick and William J. Settle were accepted as members. A minute of silent prayer was held for I. S. Sponselle, who died since the October meeting.

Three new members were accepted into the auxiliary. They are Mrs. Norman W. Boyer, Mrs. Alice B. Scott and Mrs. Edgar T. Kolb.

Joseph Moore. They were assisted by Wallace Close, who showed motion pictures of his recent trip to Europe.

Health Unit Plans X-Ray Program Here

Plans for using X-rays in tuberculosis case findings will be worked out during the next few months by the Allegany County Health Department.

Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer, said the program will be set up in accordance with six principles adopted recently by the State Board of Health.

These guiding principles are: An X-ray is a fundamental technique in the detection of tuberculosis.

This type of case finding should be applied selectively in groups of high risk tuberculosis infection and groups of presumably high incidence.

The tuberculin test is recommended as an initial screening device in the lower prevalence group.

Every community should evaluate, on a continuous basis, its problem, needs and resources to assure the most effective control of tuberculosis.

Systematic inspections will be made of all X-ray case finding equipment to make sure unnecessary radiation is kept to a minimum.

All tuberculosis X-ray survey program with physicians and the programs sponsored by the staff of the Allegany-Garrett-Tu-Health Department will have priority approval of state and local health departments.

The Health Department, Dr. van Strien said, will discuss the use of X-ray units in this county.

Policewomen Asks Council For Pay Hike

25-Cent An Hour Requested; Sick Benefits Cited

Cumberland's School Safety Patrol yesterday asked the Mayor and Council for sick benefits and a 25-cent an hour pay increase. The request, contained in a letter signed by the 11 members of the unit which controls traffic at major intersections used by school children, was referred to Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan and Police Chief R. E. Flynn.

The letter pointed out the policewomen were notified they would not be paid for time lost due to sickness but that until December they were allowed a regular days wages for absence due to illness.

They said that when they were employed it was understood that they were to be allowed the sick benefits, and asked the Mayor and Council to restore the benefits.

The delegation pointed out that a policewoman's duties entail four hours work a day, paid at the rate of $1.25 an hour.

This, they said, has to cover all transportation to and from their post six times a day.

No allowance is made, they added, for the extra time needed to change into service uniforms and members are required to buy their own ties, blouses and shoes.

They concluded by saying they felt they were justified to request a 25-cent boost to bring wages to $1.50 an hour.

Mr. Keegan informed the Council a meeting had been held on the subject and asked that the letter be referred to him and Chief Flynn.

Police, Firemen Plan Circus Here May 17

Council yesterday approved the application of the Police and Firemen's Association to have the Christiana Brothers Three-Ring Circus perform May 17 on Taylor Field here.

The association also received permission for the circus to hold a parade on the morning of the performance.

The approval of the plans is subject to investigation by the chief of police, city attorney and fire chief.

Agricultural Briefs

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Agriculture Department today released a new booklet, AMS-219, explaining how poultry processors may apply for government inspection of their product.

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Agriculture Department reported today its investment in price-support programs is running almost a billion dollars lower than a year ago.

The Commodity Credit Corporation investment last Nov. 30 — the latest date for which totals are available — was $7,168,317,000. On the same date a year earlier it was $8,169,551,000.

More than five billion, 617 million dollars of the investment last Nov. 30 was in inventories and but was too likely to catch fire, the remainder in loans on commodities.

Site For Army Center Rejected

The Mayor and Council yesterday was notified that a site on McNamee Hill will not be acceptable for the proposed Army Reserve Center.

Col. C. E. Brebner, U. S. Army Corps (Reserve) wrote that a representative of the corps visited the proposed site recently and found it unsatisfactory since utilities were not available and a road would have to be built to the center.

The Council authorized Mayor Roy W. Exes to execute a quitclaim deed to St. Luke's Evangelical Lutheran Church for a portion of Rosewood Street and portions of an unnamed alley between Bopp and Fectig avenues. The land was never formally accepted by the city for public purposes.

Parking meter collections for the week ending January 5 totaled $586.22, a decrease of $63.78 from the previous week.

Local Legion Post Will Discuss Three Programs

Three matters of importance are also to be made for a shrimp feed to be held at the first regular meeting in February.

The Legionnaires will discuss proposed changes in the by-laws, the part the organization will take in the Heart Fund campaign and plans for reaching the membership quota.

Post Commander Harold Davis said paid-up membership now totals 947 and plans are under way to reach the goal of 1,300, set by State Commander John W. Sloan, on the Legion's 40th birthday, March 15.

Commander Davis also said Vernon Crable has been appointed chairman of the Heart Fund plastic heart-coin containers and that he needs 25 Legionnaire volunteers to assist with the distribution and collection. The post is also planning to hold a Heart Fund dance during February.

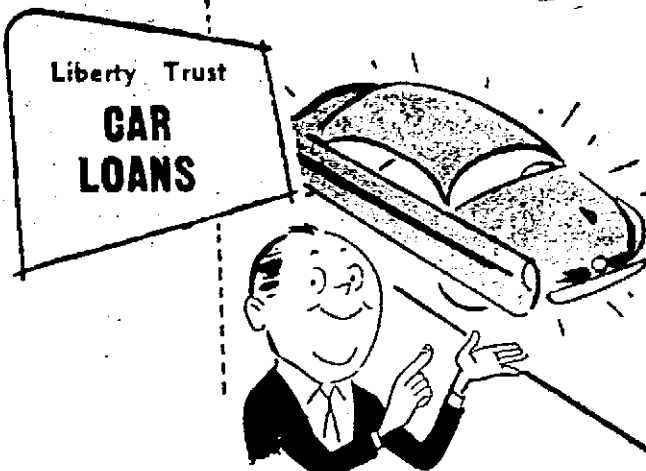

Committees are to be appointed tonight for planning an "Old-Timers Night" honoring 40-year members along with the Legion's oldest active functioning ob-birthday party March 15. Plans

Little Girl Finds Her Missing Bike

MEALESTER, Okla. — While playing near her home, 3-year-old Marsha Keuhner saw a familiar American when he was nine years looking bicycle sticking out of the trunk of a car.

She checked and found it was one stolen from her. Marsha told her parents, who called officials. The bike was in the trunk of Sheriff O. A. Pruitt's car. He had just recovered it from two boys who had stolen it.

Judge Gives Lias' Deport Order Study

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Federal Judge Joseph C. McGarray has under advisement today an appeal by William G. (Big Bill) Lias of Wheeling, W.Va., from an immigration service order that he be deported to Greece.

McGarray heard contradictory contentions yesterday that Lias entered the United States when he was nine years old and that he was born in West Virginia. The judge heard the arguments and accepted evidence under his earlier ruling granting Lias a review of the deportation proceedings.

At issue is whether Lias is a native American or an alien who last entered the United States with out a visa.

In deportation proceedings started in 1952, the immigration service has charged that Lias illegally re-entered the United States with out a visa in 1949 after a trip to Canada. The board of immigration appeals upheld a July, 1955 deportation order against him. Lias is identified as Vasilios Liackos in legal papers connected with the case.

Lias contends he was born in Wheeling July 14, 1900, while the government claims he was born playing near her home, 3-year-old Marsha Keuhner saw a familiar American when he was nine years looking bicycle sticking out of the trunk of a car.

She checked and found it was one stolen from her. Marsha told her parents, who called officials. The bike was in the trunk of Sheriff O. A. Pruitt's car. He had just recovered it from two boys who had stolen it.

Committee To Appraise W. Va. Road Program

By HERB LITTLE
CHARLESTON — A special bipartisan Senate committee has been appointed to look into the Underwood administration's road program, both as to what has already been done and needs for the future.

Senate President Bean (D-Har.) announced the makeup of the special committee, which is headed by Sen. Ballard (D-Mer.) also chairman of the standing Committee on Roads and Navigation.

Other members are Sens. Martin (D-Berkeley), the Senate majority leader; Carrigan (R-Marshall), the minority leader; Smith (D-Cahell), and Reed (R-Preston). Gov. Underwood has proposed passage of tax measures to raise an additional 37 million dollars a year to finance a greatly expanded highway program.

Senate sources said the special committee's job will be to look closely into the Road Commission's needs and ability to put more money to good use in the event some should be voted.

The committee will be interested also in the use made of money already spent for roads since the Republican administration's road commissioner, Patrick C. Graney, took over last year.

Although details have not been announced, the Democratic leadership of the Senate is expected to adopt a similar method for inquiring into school needs.

The 52-million-dollar tax program Underwood outlined to the Legislature last week also would provide an additional 15 million a year for schools.

House Speaker Flannery (D-Logan) said he is studying possible tax measures which the House leadership might put in the hopper as a substitute for Underwood's coolly received proposals.

But Flannery said he doesn't have anything ready yet, and added that he would talk with the Senate leadership before introducing anything.

James Leebler of Beckley, a United Mine Workers official, said legislative representatives of the principal unions in the state have turned thumbs down on the bulk of Underwood's 52-million-dollar program.

At a meeting last week, the group decided that the only item which may have merit is Underwood's proposal to raise an additional three million a year from the tax on horse racing, Leebler said. He added that the agreement even on this item was only tentative.

The AFL-CIO, UMW, Teamsters and railway trainmen and clerks were represented at the meeting, Leebler said.

The racing tax is a relatively small part of the tax proposals by Underwood, which also include a new state income tax and increases in consumers' sales, gross sales, gasoline and motor vehicles taxes.

One Underwood tax recommendation — outside the 52-million dollar program — won approval in slightly modified form by the Senate Finance Committee yesterday. It is the bill to extend the cigarette tax at the present five cents a pack level.

The tax was raised from four to five cents by the 1956 Legislature to help pay for a teachers' salary increase. As enacted at that time, the additional cent was to be effective for only two years, or until June 30 this year.

Letting the tax drop back to four cents would cost the general school fund $1,800,000 a year and would cause a deficit in that fund next year unless the amount was made up elsewhere.

A bill introduced in the Senate, a 60-day general session in 1961, by Carrigan and Sen. Traubert (D-Brooke) would have extended the additional cent indefinitely. As amended by the Finance Committee, the bill would extend the extra cent for three years.

Finance Chairman Jackson (D-Logan), explained that the three-year provision means the next time the Legislature would be faced with expiration would be in the calendars.

The Senate and House again were expected to be in session only briefly after convening at 2 p.m. today. Meetings will continue to be short until bills have come from committees and advanced to amendment and passage levels on the calendars.

Steel Hearts May Save Lives

NEW YORK — Every year there are 50,000 children born in the U. S. with heart defects and until now most have been doomed to early death of invalidism.

Steelways Magazine says that since the development of a heart-lung machine to make surgery inside the heart practical, there is hope that half of the children may eventually lead normal or nearly normal lives.

Originally designed for chemical laboratories where special precautions against contamination were necessary, the machine works on the principle a farmer uses in milking a cow. Steelways adds:

"Twelve steel fingers operated by a steel-alloy can gently stroke the blood through a plastic or gum-latex tube pressed against a polished stainless steel plate."

This Steelways says, insures the blood in being absolutely free of air and gas before being pumped into the patient's arteries.

Move Against Lottery Here Urged By Jury

Grand Jurors Also Cite Street Needs, Blocked RR Crossings

Calling attention to the illegality of lotteries and demanding that future violators be prosecuted, the January grand jury yesterday afternoon submitted a four-page report to Circuit Court after six days in session.

This stand was set forth in one brief paragraph in the report, reading as follows:

"It has been brought to the attention of the grand jury that certain organizations are receiving benefits from lotteries. It is strongly recommended by this body, that notice be published concerning the illegality of lotteries and that future violators should be prosecuted."

Urging Summer Work

One section of the report cites three recommendations concerning the streets of Cumberland. The grand jury recommends maintenance of the streets on a higher standard, stricter enforcement of the city code provision that trains may not block any street for more than five minutes, and finally, that property owners comply with the city ordinance regarding sidewalks.

Concerning street maintenance, the 23 jurors advocate that all unimproved streets be oiled and graded during the summer months.

The following paragraph referred to the crossing blocking:

"We again bring to the attention of the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland the fact that the streets of Cumberland have been blocked by locomotives for periods much longer than five minutes. The City Code, Chapter 14, Article 32, provides that a train cannot block any street for more than five minutes, yet it is within the personal knowledge of this grand jury that streets such as Harrison, Union, Baltimore, Frederick and Bedford are being blocked for periods much longer than five minutes and this condition exists throughout the city day and evening. We strongly urge the Mayor and City Council to enforce the strict provisions of the code and that those railroad employees charged with the operation of locomotives be prosecuted for any violation thereof."

Twenty-Two Indicted

The other section of the report states that in the six days of activity, the grand jurors examined 61 witnesses and returned 22 indictments.

The second section, which concerns inspections of county buildings and departments, lists seven recommendations.

Among these recommendations are the following:

That a room at the County Home be converted into a chapel for use of all denominations; that additional comfortable chairs be provided for Sylvan Retreat patients; that visual conditions on the County Home sun porch be improved, that handrails be installed at the front entrance to the Court House and that an inspection of the exterior of the Court House brick and mortar be made, and the necessary repairs completed.

The grand jury advocated discontinuance of the practice of storing records on the third floor at the Court House and urged replacement of wooden cabinets with steel ones; urged that the jail cook's hours be changed so that meals could be served at 8 a. m., noon and 4 p. m. daily, and finally that a woman attendant be assigned to the jail while women are being detained there.

Considered Satisfactory

Conditions generally in these buildings and departments were considered satisfactory except for the recommendations. The superintendents and employees of the various county institutions inspected were commended for the manner in which the various county properties and records are maintained, including those of the county auditor.

A fifth section of the report was a recommendation that the county commissioners investigate the feasibility of using microfilm for the reproduction and filing of records for all county offices.

The sixth and last section commends State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher, County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya, Mrs. Gusteen Linaburg, secretary to the grand jury, and finally appreciation and thanks to the grand jury foreman, Norwood J. Wilkinson. The clerk to the grand jury was Joseph T. Downey and Mortimer C. Schaidt.

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris received the report, commended the grand jurors for their public service and excused them to which an admonition that under rare circumstances grand jurors are recalled. The grand jury will remain on call until April.

Obstruction Of Justice Charged To Det. Sticher

The grand jury has indicted City Detective Joseph H. Sticher on two charges of obstructing justice.

The indictments, which resulted from the failure of two teenage girls to testify before the October grand jury last October 3, were placed on the open docket yesterday afternoon.

The two four-count indictments in identical language charge Sticher with "unlawfully and corruptly" obstructing and impeding the due administration of justice by "corruptly, maliciously and wickedly" influencing the two girls to leave Allegany County until after the October grand jury finished its deliberations.

Detective Suspended

One indictment concerned Miss Doris Jane Ralston, 19, rear of 227 Virginia Avenue, and the other involved Miss Betty Lou Pryor, 19, of Jane Frazier Village. Both indictments were found on the testimony of County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya.

When informed of the two indictments, Police Commissioner William V. Keegan announced the suspension of Detective Sticher from the police force pending the outcome of his trial.

Commissioner Keegan issued the following statement: "Having been informed of the indictment of Officer (Joseph H.) Sticher by the grand jury for Allegany County, I have no alternative but to order the suspension of Officer Sticher until such time as the charges against him have been heard before the Circuit Court of Allegany County."

"I know nothing of this case, other than what has been reported in the newspapers. I do not intend this action to reflect one way or another upon the question of the guilt or innocence of the officer concerned; however, when a matter as serious as an indictment is pending against an officer, he cannot effectively serve as a police officer until the matter is determined one way or another and, accordingly, as stated above, I have directed the suspension of Officer Sticher from the department pending the outcome of this trial."

Free On Probation

When the two girls failed to appear before the grand jury last October, State Police found them at Waldorf in Southern Maryland. They were lodged in the County Jail here from October 16 until November 14 when they appeared before Chief Judge George Henderson on a charge of failing to appear before the October grand jury. The girls have been free on probation since then.

Also placed on the open docket yesterday was an indictment charging E. A. Cromwell, Daisy D. Cromwell and Dorothy J. Cromwell, holders of the alcoholic beverages license for Alibi Liquor Store, Inc., better known as Al's Chateau, with selling and furnishing a number of gin fizzes to Miss Ralston, Miss Pryor, and a Shirley Jane Ziler. The third count of the indictment charges that the girls were allowed to loiter on the premises last June 11.

Placed on the open docket last Friday was an indictment charging Jane R. Molinari, John L. Farrin and William D. Trozzo, holders of the liquor license of Cadillac Liquor Store, Inc., with a similar charge of selling and furnishing the same under-age girls with a number of gin fizzes. This, too was alleged to have happened June 11.

Purchased Drinks

On June 11, Miss Pryor was arrested by local police at the intersection of Baltimore and Liberty streets and was charged with three motor vehicle violations. At a hearing the next day before Magistrate Donald W. Mason the three girls testified that they had purchased a number of drinks at two local establishments.

James Edward Earsom, 49, of 12 North Mechanic Street, was arrested last November 5 and at that time was charged with obstructing justice in aiding Miss Ralston in absconding herself on.

Local rainfall totaled .79 inch and sleet .04 inch with the low temperature 29 degrees. The noon and high temperature was 37 degrees, according to Robert R. Golden, official observer at Constitution Park.

The Weather Bureau said rain came from a "double-barreled" low pressure system that con- sidered to be two storm centers, "one condition exists throughout the city day and evening. We strongly urge the Mayor and City Council to enforce the strict provisions of the code and that those railroad employees charged with the operation of locomotives be prosecuted for any violation thereof."

It predicted they would pass through its police department, during the afternoon and rain would end late today. Mild weather will remain until about Thursday, the bureau said, then cold Canadian air is expected.

City Police Officer Has Been Indicted

The grand jury has indicted City Detective Joseph H. Sticher on two charges of obstructing justice.

The indictments, which resulted from the failure of two teenage girls to testify before the October grand jury last October 3, were placed on the open docket yesterday afternoon.

The two four-count indictments in identical language charge Sticher with "unlawfully and corruptly" obstructing and impeding the due administration of justice by "corruptly, maliciously and wickedly" influencing the two girls to leave Allegany County until after the October grand jury finished its deliberations.

Detective Suspended

One indictment concerned Miss Doris Jane Ralston, 19, rear of 227 Virginia Avenue, and the other involved Miss Betty Lou Pryor, 19, of Jane Frazier Village. Both indictments were found on the testimony of County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya.

When informed of the two indictments, Police Commissioner William V. Keegan announced the suspension of Detective Sticher from the police force pending the outcome of his trial.

Commissioner Keegan issued the following statement: "Having been informed of the indictment of Officer (Joseph H.) Sticher by the grand jury for Allegany County, I have no alternative but to order the suspension of Officer Sticher until such time as the charges against him have been heard before the Circuit Court of Allegany County."

"I know nothing of this case, other than what has been reported in the newspapers. I do not intend this action to reflect one way or another upon the question of the guilt or innocence of the officer concerned; however, when a matter as serious as an indictment is pending against an officer, he cannot effectively serve as a police officer until the matter is determined one way or another and, accordingly, as stated above, I have directed the suspension of Officer Sticher from the department pending the outcome of this trial."

Free On Probation

When the two girls failed to appear before the grand jury last October, State Police found them at Waldorf in Southern Maryland. They were lodged in the County Jail here from October 16 until November 14 when they appeared before Chief Judge George Henderson on a charge of failing to appear before the October grand jury. The girls have been free on probation since then.

Also placed on the open docket yesterday was an indictment charging E. A. Cromwell, Daisy D. Cromwell and Dorothy J. Cromwell, holders of the alcoholic beverages license for Alibi Liquor Store, Inc., better known as Al's Chateau, with selling and furnishing a number of gin fizzes to Miss Ralston, Miss Pryor, and a Shirley Jane Ziler. The third count of the indictment charges that the girls were allowed to loiter on the premises last June 11.

Placed on the open docket last Friday was an indictment charging Jane R. Molinari, John L. Farrin and William D. Trozzo, holders of the liquor license of Cadillac Liquor Store, Inc., with a similar charge of selling and furnishing the same under-age girls with a number of gin fizzes. This, too was alleged to have happened June 11.

Purchased Drinks

On June 11, Miss Pryor was arrested by local police at the intersection of Baltimore and Liberty streets and was charged with three motor vehicle violations. At a hearing the next day before Magistrate Donald W. Mason the three girls testified that they had purchased a number of drinks at two local establishments.

James Edward Earsom, 49, of 12 North Mechanic Street, was arrested last November 5 and at that time was charged with obstructing justice in aiding Miss Ralston in absconding herself on.

Della Group Will Not Back Goldstein

Efforts Continue To Organize Rival Maryland Ticket

By The Associated Press

Another Maryland Democratic leader has let it be known the party's "harmony ticket" is not completely satisfactory to him. State Sen. George W. Della of Baltimore said last night his Sixth District Democratic organization would not support Senate President Louis L. Goldstein for comptroller.

The organization will support Joseph L. Manning, executive secretary of the Independent Retail Grocers of Maryland, "if he runs," Della said.

West Virginia Youth Jailed For Slaying

Adkins Held In Gun Death Of Man After Visit Ends In Fight

CLARKSBURG — Sheriff Rex Bumgardner announced the filing of a first degree murder charge today against 19-year-old Calvin Adkins for the fatal shooting of William K. Wick, 26, of Stiltner, Wayne County, last night.

Bumgardner said Adkins admitted killing Spence and wounding Argonne Lucas, 25, also of Stiltner at nearby Wolf Summit last night.

The shooting occurred in the home of Adkins' mother, Mrs. Nora Atkins. The son and his wife had been visiting Mrs. Atkins when a quarrel started.

Bumgardner said young Atkins related this story:

He arrived at his mother's home and began to complain about money which she had been giving to Spence. Young Atkins main-tained she had spent around $13,000 since the death of her husband, who was in an automobile accident five years ago, much of it going to Spence.

As the quarrel progressed, Adkins left the house, went to a nearby truck stop and obtained a rifle. Then he informed his brother, Curtis, he intended to kill the two men.

Curtis Atkins warned Spence and Lucas, but as Calvin Atkins approached the house, Spence appeared on the porch. Spence told Lucas to disarm Atkins. Lucas moved toward the youth and was shot. Spence again appeared and died of a bullet wound in his neck.

Young Atkins surrendered shortly afterward and was taken to the Harrison county jail.

Coroner Kenna Jackson said no inquest would be held.

Doctors at a Clarksburg hospital said Lucas' wound was not critical.

Three Escape Crash Of Plane

HAGERSTOWN — Two pilots and a passenger escaped injury today when their airplane ground-looped on an icy runway and crashed into a tree at the Fairchild Engine and Airplane Co. airport where they were making an instrument landing in the rain.

The twin-engine Douglas plane was demolished. It was owned by the General Tire Co. of Akron, Ohio.

George Kincaid, an official of the firm, was being flown to Fairchild to buy another plane for the company.

The pilots were Ray Sweder and John Fletcher.

Births

KETTERMAN — Mr. and Mrs. Grant, Flintstone, twins, a son and daughter, this morning in Memorial Hospital.

MARKLEY — Mr. and Mrs. David F. 436 Homer Street, a son last night in Memorial.

McCLINTIC — Lt. and Mrs. Patrick, McCool, a daughter on January 11 at Potomac Valley Hospital in Keyser.

WILFONG — Mr. and Mrs. James, Romney, a son yesterday in Memorial.

Woman Asks Clarification Of Decision

A petition was filed in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday asking a Westernport woman in money which she had been giving to Spence. Young Atkins main-tained she had spent around $13,000 since the death of her husband, who was in an automobile accident five years ago, much of it going to Spence.

Drivers Must Re-Register Under Law

Additional Insurance Protection Also Provided In State

BALTIMORE — Two laws that will soon go into effect will give drivers more financial protection and clean up the dead-wood in some records of the Motor Vehicles Department.

But they'll also cost drivers more money, either $2 or $10 in most cases.

One of them is the department's program to relicense vehicle operators. This first house cleaning in 22 years is intended to weed out some 300,000 to 300,000 out-of-date records of persons who have moved out of the state or died, or who aren't driving any more.

Must Re-Register

The re-registration will include a fee of $1. It won't be necessary for a driver to take another test, but he'll be required to fill out a new application, which will be mailed.

The department will carry out this plan over a three-year period, with those whose last names begin with A, B, or C required to register first.

The second law, which goes into effect with renewal of license plates this year, will start building up the Unsatisfied Claim and Judgment Fund.

Under this statute, motorists will be required to pay a $1 additional fee if they have suitable property and liability insurance. If they are not insured, they'll have to fork over another $2.

The fund will also be built up by companies writing such insurance in Maryland, which will have to pay one-half of one per cent of their net direct premiums.

Could Be More

Commissioner James B. Monroe will decide if the expected funds will meet the cost of probable claims at the beginning of each year. If not, he may assess uninsured owners and the companies additional fees.

The fund is scheduled to go into effect June 1, 1959 but Monroe said the Legislature may be asked to step up the date by six months.

Under the Unsatisfied Claim and Judgment Fund Law, a driver is protected if he is the innocent victim of an accident involving a driver who does not carry insurance nor have financial responsibility.

The protection will cover accidents involving claims of more than $100. Maximum coverage is $10,000 for death or injury of one person, $20,000 for death or injury of more than one person in one accident, and $5,000 property damage.

New Parking

ing for an ordinance. He said he realized it could not apply to the downtown area where space is at a premium but it would to areas such as Frederick Street where additional ground is available for purchase.

Two Plan Facilities

City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum said while their plans have not been submitted he understood both St. Luke's and First Methodist are planning off-street parking facilities.

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan said if and when churches are built, his department will have church parking signs placed on the street if off-street space is not available.

Finance Commissioner John J. Long added that parking and traffic are handled by the Police Department every day and the department should advise council on what to do in matters such as this.

Local Man Hurt In Crash

Frederick Calhoun, 24, of 420 Springdale Street, is reported in "good" condition at Memorial Hospital where he was admitted Sunday morning after being struck by a car.

Ridgeley Police Chief Jack D. Cornett said the accident occurred on Route 28 near Wiley Ford.

Hospital attaches said Calhoun sustained a compound fracture of the left leg, fracture of the right leg and lacerations of the scalp.

Cornett said the local man was injured as he was walking across the highway at the intersection of Route 28 and the Wiley Ford Road.

He said Calhoun was hit by a car being driven toward Ridgeley by Richard T. Combs, of LaVale, who reported he saw a man walking across the highway but had no chance to stop the car.

Chief Cornett said the pedestrian was hit by the front of the vehicle and was knocked about 12 feet.

He said he was told Calhoun was looking in the wrong direction as he crossed the highway.

Chief Cornett said the investigation is being completed by Trooper R. B. Noechel, of the Keyser detachment of the West Virginia State Police. No charges have been placed pending completion of the investigation.

Four-Vehicle Crash Hurts Two Persons

Two cars and two tractor-trailers collided on the Pennsylvania Turnpike this morning causing approximately $4,000 property damage and hospitalizing two persons.

Turnpike Police at the Everett sub-station said the four-vehicle collision occurred shortly before noon in the Everett area.

Admitted to Bedford County Memorial Hospital were Francis Marino, Pittsburgh, and a Mr. Weisburg, also of Pittsburgh.

Weisburg's first name was unknown, but it was established that he was employed by the Department of Labor and Industry in Pennsylvania.

Hospital attaches said the extent of the injuries of the men is unknown. Marino had one leg amputated as soon as he was admitted.

Turnpike police gave the following account of the mishap:

Marino, driving a late model sedan, skidded on the icy highway and ran into a ditch on the right side. John T. Dailey, Cincinnati, came down the super-highway and rammed into the rear of the Marino car.

Marino, Dailey and Weisburg, a passenger in one of the cars, got out of the vehicles and were standing along the roadway when William G. Land, 36, of Greensburg, Ind., came along in his tractor-trailer and smashed into the two automobiles, pinning both Marino and Weisburg under the wreckage.

Shortly afterwards Robert Hennigan, 31, also operating a tractor-trailer rammed into the three wrecked vehicles.

Police said approximately $1,500 damage was caused to Marino's car, $2,000 to Dailey's and $300 to Hennigan's rig.

Edna Bauserman New Moorefield Teacher Of Year

MOOREFIELD — Miss Edna Bauserman has been selected for the "Teacher of the Year" award to be made by the Woman's Club of Moorefield. A committee had been appointed with a member of the Woman's Club as chairman, assisted by representatives from the Lions, the Parent-Teacher Association, school authorities and local churches.

The local group will make the award at the annual dinner held in May, but the selection had to be made early so that the state award can be made at the meeting to be held at the Greenbrier Hotel, White Sulphur Springs, in March.

Rev. Charles Godwin spoke to members of the Woman's Club on the "Religious Background of the American Revolution." In his remarks he pointed out the part that various denominations had taken, showing that while the Quakers would not fight they helped in many other ways. He traced briefly the status of various groups before the Revolution, during the actual rebellion and after the war was over.

Mrs. Wyndell Hester, safety chairman, presented suggestions for the club.

It was announced that the used clothing store is proceeding well but clothing, especially men's and children's, is requested.

Mrs. Ed Baker, representing the club, attended a meeting of those interested in forming a hospital auxiliary for the Grant County Hospital and reported on plans. A meeting will be held in Petersburg at 7:30 p. m. Thursday to form such an organization, elect officers and plan work. Any one interested in helping is urged to attend.

Mrs. W. J. Teets, Mrs. Ashby Sea and the president, Mrs. M. H. Maxwell, will plan for the annual food sale for the March of Dimes.

Devotions were conducted by Mrs. W. J. Teets. She presented Mrs. J. M. Harman and Mrs. Dorsey Thomas who sang for the group.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Oscar Bean, Mrs. Wyndell Hester, Mrs. W. C. H. Poole, Mrs. J. M. Harrison, Mrs. Roy Hamilton and Mrs. C. L. Pratt.

Mt. Savage PTA Improves Savage

MT. SAVAGE — The Mt. Savage Elementary School playground is getting some improvements due to the efforts of the Parent-Teacher Association. The area in front of the elementary wing is being enlarged, and the Cyclone fence has been moved 65 feet toward the "Tear Drop" and main driveway. In this area are climbing towers and chinning bars.

The elementary school has been supplied with balancing boards and banking boards with baskets. In the ball field, used also as a parking area, a backstop is being installed. During noon recess as many as three games of baseball may be seen in progress.

During hours when children are outdoors, barriers built by the Industrial Arts Department of the state school are placed on the highway. These are reminders to traffic that it is necessary to slow up to insure the safety of the children.

Taylor Held For Mineral County Jury

KEYSER — James Taylor, 36, Hyattsville, Md., is being held under $1,000 bond for action of the grand jury on charges of throwing a rock at a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Diesel locomotive and striking a fireman between the eyes.

When Taylor appeared before Justice of the Peace Madalyn Bazzle Friday for a preliminary hearing, he told her he had no attorney. After hearing brief testimony by the victim of the rock throwing incident, Louis S. Yeager, 33, Brunswick, Md., and B&O Policeman Thomas Y. Engle, Miss Bazzle told Taylor she had no alternative but to hold him for the grand jury which meets January 21.

Yeager told Miss Bazzle that about 4 a. m. January 5 he was a member of a train crew that was making up a loaded coal train to pull out of the Keyser yards. He said the train was in three sections and that the Diesel was pulling the first section down the tracks to back up and pick up the second section.

The Diesel, he said, pulled down across both the Main Street and West Street crossing and then started backing up. Yeager said the West Street crossing was not blocked more than five minutes, and the Main Street crossing 10 to 15 minutes.

He said that as the Diesel neared the Main Street crossing he was leaning out the cab window instructing the engineer of the signals on up in the yards. Yeager told Miss Bazzle that he noticed a man walking down the tracks and thought nothing of it, figuring he was going to walk around the front of the Diesel.

Yeager said the next thing he knew a rock hit him squarely between the eyes. He denied there were any words between him and the man. Yeager was confined for a couple of days to Potomac Valley Hospital where three stitches were required to close the wound.

Yeager said he later arrested Taylor who admitted throwing the rock because he was "mad because the crossing had been blocked."

Taylor was visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Taylor, North Main Street, at the time of the incident.

Taylor indicated in an unofficial statement he did not get out of the car at the Main Street crossing, and that his brother was the one who walked down the tracks.

Miss Bazzle advised Taylor to get an attorney before his appearance in Circuit Court.

When the 1958 football season rolls around, teams in Fort Hill Stadium will be battling for just one point after touchdown regardless of whether they kick, pass or run.

The new rule enacted by the NCAA which provides two points for a conversion scored on a run or pass, and the traditional one point if a successful placement or drop-kick follows the touchdown, will not apply to high schools in Maryland.

Bob Pence, supervisor of physical education for Allegany County Public Schools, said this morning that scholastic rules are set up by the National Alliance Football Committee. The alliance consists of the National Federation of High School Athletic Associations, National Junior College Athletic Association and the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

The alliance met at Lexington, Ky., January 5-8, and no such proposed rule change was discussed there. Only three states—Ohio, Texas and Oklahoma—do not belong to the National High School Federation. Baltimore City schools also operate independently.

W. R. Fugitt, executive secretary of the West Virginia Secondary Schools Activities Commission, reported today that the proposed scoring change suggested at the Lexington meeting was to increase the value of a safety from two to four points. He said he did not believe the alliance would reconvene this year for the purpose of changing the scoring on extra-point conversions.

"I believe the high school rules group is a little more conservative than the NCAA," Fugitt was quoted as saying in Beckley. "The high school game is different. Our group would experiment with any such change for a while before making it applicable everywhere."

As Potomac State coach "Horse" Lough pointed out yesterday, "Only time will tell if the new conversion rule is a good one."

Offhand, it looks like the radical change will take the foot out of football. If you were a quarter-back, wouldn't you go for two points instead of one?

Hyndman's Five Tests Explorers' Win Streak

By JIM DAY

Times Scholastic Sports Editor

The area's only undefeated quint, LaSalle High's Explorers, place their ten-game streak on the court tonight at SS. Peter and Paul gym with the Hornets from Hyndman getting their first crack at the winning ways of the locals.

The Explorers will be the only city quint to play before home fans with Allegany and Fort Hill both carded for Western Mary- land Interscholastic League con- tests on foreign boards.

The Campers, pacing the circuit with their 3-0 record, will be at Westernport to tangle with the Bruce Bulldogs while the Hilltoppers are in Mt. Savage. Valley is host to Beall of Frostburg; at Detmold to round out the loop's three-game slate.

Seven Potomac Valley Con- ference clashes are also billed to- night along with five non-league attractions.

Equals '57 Win Mark LaSalle has already equalled its win production of the past season when coach George Geatz's charges posted a 10-11 record. Since Geatz, ex-LaSalle high all-round star of the '40s, took over in 1955, LaSalle quint has posted an even 50 victories, while dropping 23 contests.

Tonight's tilt with the Hornets will be the first start for the North Centre Streeters against scholastic opposition since last Tuesday's 44-31 trimming of Bedford. They will be idle after tonight until next Tuesday when facing Fort Hill on the Sentinel's court in LaSalle's first intra-city tilt.

If getting by the Hornets to- night, LaSalle faces the roughest part of its slate in the next two weeks. After the clash with the Sentinels, LaSalle meets Allegany that Friday and then has the re- turn bout with Valley on Tues- day, January 28. The Knights, although sporting only a 5-4 mark, were beaten by LaSalle in the opener, 61-50, but are always tough on their home boards.

Campers Favored The Campers, who have flash- ed back with strong second-half rallies to take all three of their WMU appearances, shoot for No. 4 tonight and will be heavily favored to hand Bruce its third loss in four loop attempts and sixth in eight attempts.

Robertson Boosts Lead Over Stilt In Point Race

By FRED DE LUCA

NEW YORK—(INS)—Wilt Chamberlain is back, just as big and just as good as ever, thereby ending a nightmare for Kansas but hardly causing Cincinnati's amazing Oscar Robertson to lose any sleep.

Chamberlain returned to the lineup last night for the first time since being stricken with an infection New Year's Day. The seven-foot giant proved he still had his touch by pouring in 32 points to lead Kansas to a 67-46 victory over Colorado.

That snapped a two-game losing streak the third-ranked Jayhawks built up while their center was sidelined, but Chamberlain's 32 points actually found him losing ground in his race to retake the scoring leadership from Robert- son.

Oscar Gets 37 Wilt's output kept his average at 32.2 points a game but the Cin- cinnati sophomore scored 37 as the seventh-ranked Bearcats routed Houston, 92 to 57, and in- creased his average from 32.3 to 32.7.

Jayhawk fans had more to cheer about in Nebraska's 57-40 upset of Oklahoma. It was the Sooners' first loss in three Big Eight Conference games and gave the loop lead to Kansas State and Iowa State, both with 1-0. Kansas now is 1-1 in the league and 11-2 overall.

Cincinnati's triumph gave it an 11-2 record and a 6-1 mark in the Missouri Valley Conference, still behind fifth-ranked Bradley's 15-0. The Peoria Braves battered North Texas State, 85 to 58, last night for their ninth win in ten starts.

Kentucky, the No. 11 team, routed Tulane, 86 to 50, to make its Southeast Conference record a front-running 4-0. Mississippi State, ranked 13th, lost its second straight after 11 wins in a row, dropping a 74-62 decision to Vanderbilt.

Michigan, Indiana Tie In other SEC games, Tennessee whipped Louisiana State, 75 to 51; Georgia Tech topped Mississippi, 76 to 67; and Florida edged Ala- bama, 65 to 62.

All the Big Ten teams but Michigan State and Purdue played last night and after it was over, Michigan and Indiana were tied for first place in the conference with 3-1 marks.

Michigan whipped Ohio State, 72 to 63, and Indiana bombed Minnesota, 85 to 64. Wisconsin snipped Illinois, 71 to 70, on Walter Holt's basket with six seconds to play. Northwestern beat Iowa, 82 to 70, in overtime.

There was action in the South- west, too, and today Arkansas leads the conference with a 4-0 record, trailed by Southern Metho- dist with 3-1.

The Porkers, a real darkhorse team, defeated Texas Tech, 53 to 35, and SMU downed Texas, 82 to 68. Texas Christian blasted Rice, 92 to 63, and now both teams have 2-2 league records.

In other games across the coun- try the scores included DePaul 62, Louisville 60; St. Bonaventure 81, Detroit 59; St. Francis (Pa.) 61, Providence 59; William and Mary 75, Davidson 61; Florida State 63, Memphis State 51; Iowa State 63, Drake 42; Hardin-Simmons 65, Texas Western 43; Miami 90, Rollins 71.

Bobcats Aim For WVIAC Tie Tonight

By The Associated Press

West Virginia Wesleyan will be shooting for a first place tie in State Conference standings against Alderson-Broaddus in the feature tilt of tonight's seven-game card involving West Virginia collegiate quintets.

The Bobcats currently hold the runnerup spot in the conference with a 9-0 record — right behind idle West Virginia Tech which is 9-0 in loop play.

Shepherd At Home A-B, in the throes of a two-game losing streak after winning three straight, is 4-6 in loop com- petition. Three other conference contests on tap tonight include: Third-ranked Morris Harvey (6-1), at Concord (2-4), fourth-rated West Liberty (6-2) at Fairmont State (5-4) and Salem (0-9) at Davis & Elkins (1-7) in a battle of cellar dwellers.

Non-league contests will pit Bluefield State, 6-3 against Vir- ginia State, Shippensburg, Pa. at Shepherd (2-7) and Camp Le- Jeune Marines at Glenville State (4-4).

Marines Get Good Start The Marines had things well in hand in the second half of a Monday night contest against Concord. They moved from a 35-32 halftime deficit to overcome Buck Jamison's crew, 77-67, to open their four-game invasion of West Vir- ginia on a successful note. The Marines will play at West Virginia Tech Wednesday before moving in to action at Morris Harvey Thursday.

In the only other Monday con- test involving a state college team, West Virginia State's Yellow Jack- ets dropped a 78-73 decision to Norfolk State at Norfolk. The Yellow Jackets carried the game right down to the wire before the Virginians went ahead for good, 74-73, with little more than a minute to play.

Percy Giles netted 22 points and Tom Young scored 18 for the losers.

Old Exports, Caseys Win

By The Associated Press

Old Exports, the new all-time scoring leader of pro basketball, and Clyde Lovellette of Cincinnati popped up as new challengers to the season scoring title today in NBA romped to an 89-65 conquest of Syracuse.

Schayes scored one more point in four games last week than leader George Yardley of Detroit did in five, gaining a 24.7-points-a-game average with his 109 total nearly enough to save his team from a decisive defeat. Clay 986 in 40 games while Yardley has a 1,034 total for 39 games and a 26.5 average.

Lovellette is ranked No. 3 on a Chaney's Transportation for total points basis, scoring 939 in four place by nosing out Moving Vans, 55 to 52, in the basis — generally used in scoring other part of the twin bill. Hero figures — is still fourth behind in of the game was Tom Minke who caged three foul goals in the last- minute of play.

Norm Geatz and Sonny Ackerman hooped 17 and 14 points, respectively, for the Caseys. Bob Scott had 24 for Chaney's.

West Virginia Leads AP Poll Fourth Week In Row

By JACK HAND

The Associated Press

Powerful West Virginia, one of the few unbeaten major college teams, remains No. 1 for the fourth successive week in The Associated Press poll.

Sports writers and sportscasters voting in the poll gave West Virginia 69 of the 104 first-place votes. No one else was close.

The Mountaineers romped over George Washington Saturday for their 12th consecutive victory and 28th in a row in the Southern Conference.

On a basis of 10 points for first, 9 for second and 50 on, West Virginia amassed 941 points. Second-place Kansas State, with only four firsts, had 590 points. Kansas was right behind with 586 points for third place and six firsts.

Kansas State (11-1) added victories over Minnesota and Nebraska during the week. Kansas (10-2) lost its only start to Oklahoma. The poll included games through Saturday.

Although San Francisco had nine first places, second only to West Virginia, it finished fourth with 532 points after a week in which the Dons whipped Santa Clara and College of the Pacific.

Fifth-place Cincinnati bowed to Oklahoma State last week, then poured it on to swamp Seton Hall and finished by running up 127 points against North Texas.

The North Carolina team that bowed to Maryland 74-61 for its second loss in two years dropped from third to sixth place.

Oklahoma State advanced to seventh place. Maryland took 8th. Kentucky clung to ninth by whipping Vanderbilt and Louisiana State, and Bradley held 10th by taking two from Houston.

Previously unbeaten Mississippi State tumbled from fifth to 11th after losing to Georgia Tech. The standings, with first-place votes in parentheses:

Dawson Shoots City League High

By The Associated Press

Fort Hill High School's bowling team maintained its spot in the Bi-State League by shutting out Allegany yesterday at the Dia- mond on the strength of Eddie Dawson's sizzling shooting. Daw- son established a season high for a single game when he swept 239 sticks off the alleys. He also had a 503 set.

The previous top mark was 230, held jointly by Mike Holcomb of Fort Hill and Tim Felten of LaSalle.

LaSalle, incidentally, kept with- in a game of Fort Hill in the second half race by also taking a 3-4 decision, the Explorers win- ning over Ridgeley at the Savoy. Kornblatt led the Allegany at- tack with 423, Bill Blake posted a 510 to pace LaSalle and Meese- vas Ridgeley's best with 378.

Baseball Move To Coast Hit By MacPhail

NEW YORK (AP) — After 10 years of silence Larry MacPhail finally has popped off about baseball.

"The greatest mistake baseball ever made was when the National League gave the Giants and Dodgers permission to go to the Pacific Coast," MacPhail said last night at a Baseball Writers' testimonial dinner to Babe Hamberger, Dodgers' official.

"I am willing to bet even money that the Dodgers never play in the Rose Bowl or the Coliseum," he said. "And I'm willing to bet even money they never will play in the ravine (Chavez). I think Mr. O'Malley (Dodger President Walter O'Malley) has something else in mind."

After his impromptu talk, MacPhail elaborated in response to the writers' questions.

"I believe he hopes to sell baseball through television," he said, indicating he thought O'Malley was counting on pay-as-you-go TV to pay the bills over the long haul.

"When I left the Yankees in 1947, I promised I'd never pop off about baseball for 10 years," said MacPhail. "Well, I kept my promise, except for the time I had to testify before Congress when they were investigating baseball."

The former Brooklyn general manager and New York Yankee president who sold out his Yankees interest in 1947 now operates a horse racing farm called Glenhurst at Bel Air, Md.

Frick Sticks To TV Guns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick said today he has not altered his opposition to plans of six major league clubs to televise Sunday games next season. He said it would hurt minor leagues.

"I think it's a shame," he said, "he wanted to talk over baseball's TV controversy with congressional antitrust investigators."

Frick and President Frank St. Louis of the International League conference with Representatives Celler (D-NY) and Keating (D-NY) of the House Antitrust committee, which is working on a bill to clarify the legal status of all professional team sports.

Latest indications are that the subcommittee will come up with a compromise along the lines of a proposal by Keating to exempt all but the strictly commercial aspects of baseball, football, basketball and hockey from federal antitrust laws. In that situation, the much disputed reserve clause binding a player to his team would probably be excluded but such phases as television contracts undoubtedly would be subject to antitrust regulations.

One purpose of today's meeting is to consider what should and should not be considered commercial aspects, for purposes of the law. The TV problem is another.

One network (CBS) said recently half a dozen clubs had made arrangements to televise Sunday "Game of the Week" in 1958.

NBA's Welter Tourney Plans Get Opposition

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Aggressive Gil Turner and stylish Vince Martinez meet for big stakes here tomorrow night in their 12-round welterweight elimination bout at The Arena.

To the winner goes a shot at the 147-pound crown with the blessing of the National Boxing Association. The NBA last Saturday ruled that the winner of the Turner-Martinez fight should meet Cuba's Isaac Logart for the welter title.

Turner, Martinez, Logart and Gaspar Ortega originally were named by the NBA to fight it out for the title vacated by Carmen Basilio after he won the middleweight crown from Sugar Ray Robinson. Logart beat Ortega. Now Martinez and Turner are to battle.

Another group, the World Professional Boxing Championship Committee refuses to go along with the welterweight tournament proposed by the NBA. It wants Virgil Atkins and George Barnes included.

The NBA in calling for a title bout between the Martinez-Turner winner and Logart, said also the eventual champion must defend first against Atkins.

West Virginia Finally Alone In No. 1 Slot

By The Associated Press

It took them more than a month to do it, but West Virginia's Mountaineers finally have taken sole possession of the No. 1 spot in the Southern Conference basketball standings to go with their No. 1 national ranking.

Until last night, the Mountaineers were one of two teams undefeated in conference competition. Today, West Virginia stood alone at the top of the league with a 7-0 record and not a serious challenger in sight.

William & Mary's Indians ended Davidson's hopes for an undefeated conference campaign last night with a 75-61 victory over the Wildcats at Williamsburg and now must be counted one of West Virginia's top beneficiaries. Only last Saturday, the Indians had disposed of ambitious Richmond's title aspirations by knocking off the Spiders 72-66.

The Indians used the foul line to whip Davidson, scoring 33 points from the charity stripe. In the law, The TV problem is another. One network (CBS) said recently half a dozen clubs had made arrangements to televise Sunday "Game of the Week" in 1958.

Ryff Unmarked After Victory

NEW YORK (AP) — Former lightweight contender Frankie Ryff had his second straight victory today and, more important, an unmarked face.

Win or lose, the rangy New Yorker used to come out of fights looking like his brows had been worked over by a potato scrapper.

When he lost three successive fights, two by technical kayos, late in 1956 and early in '57, Frankie decided he had to have plastic surgery done on his jutting eyebrows.

The operation so far has proven a rousing success. Ryff handed Kid Centella of Nicaragua a shellacking in a television bout at St. Nicholas Arena. A month before, Ryff had launched his comeback by drubbing Frankie Ippolito in the same club.

"It's the first time in years that I can remember that I went through two straight fights without a scratch," said the jubilant Frankie. "I feel like a new man."

Ryff won by close to a shutout. Referee Ray Miller and Judge Bill Forster each gave him all 10 rounds. Artie Aidala had it 9-1. The AP card had it 10-0.

Game Postponed

Independent action has Bayard (4-3) at Northern (4-3) in Accident. Mountaineer High (3-4) traveling to Tygart's Valley. Wardensville (5-2) playing at Harpers Ferry. Frederick (6-1) being host to Rockville and South Hagers-town (2-6) up against Walter Johnson on the latter's court.

Illness of "Tack" Clark and failure to obtain another official to take his place have resulted in the postponement of tonight's PVC game between Ridgeley and Piedmont.

The contest has been rescheduled for tomorrow at Piedmont. The return game between these two schools will be played next Monday at Ridgeley instead of Tuesday.

Corum Hopes Score Wins 20 In 1958

By BILL CORUM

NEW YORK (INS) — The finest thing that could happen in baseball next season would be for Herb Score, of the Indians, to come back and win 20 games. I was about to write that, "For Herb Score to come back and win 20 games for the Indians."

But Herb is working for Frank Lane now, which is like being the chauffeur of a revolving door. Which is only a small joke and not original, either. For Lane is a nice man, who must feel the same way every baseball fan in the land feels about Score.

For sentimental reasons, therefore, he wouldn't trade this courageous and admired young man. Nor could he, sensibly, on the grounds of baseball ability.

Herb Has Heart

Herb was just coming on to where he was the greatest young pitcher the game had seen in years when he suffered the tragic accident of being struck in the eye with a line drive in Cleveland last May.

Score had speed, the greatest asset a pitcher can have, and just about everything else. He, also, had heart, as he proved in this painful accident and long and tedious recovery. Which will be the most important factor in the return to greatness as a pitcher that he, and his host of friends, are confident now that he will achieve.

Herb admits that he doesn't see as well as he did before the accident, and that he never expects to. It wouldn't be normal for an eye to be subjected to such a terrific blow and ever be as good again.

Still Has Vision

The accident, of course, was one of those once-in-a-million things, and might not even have happened that once if the baseball manufacturers would only deaden the ball a bit.

Score still has vision in both his eyes. Only something called depth perception troubles him. He isn't likely ever to be able to field his position as well as he would have if there'd been no accident.

Otherwise, there would seem to be no reason to believe that he shouldn't pitch as well as ever. I've only known one one-eyed pitcher in the majors. He was with the Cardinals for awhile but the name escapes me at the moment.

In any case, he did all right and it wasn't the loss of the eye that kept him from being a star. He simply wasn't that sort of pitcher; didn't have what Score has in that great left arm of his.

That still must be there and so is the young man's alert mind, heart and determination. So the guess is that Herb will come back into his own, with "Future Unlimited," as he was tabbed by all baseball men before he was hurt.

Certainly it is the hope of this column and today I'm sure of one thing that seldom happens — there won't be one dissenting reader.

Hurry up and start mowing 'em down, Herb.

Clemson Lists Six ACC Football Opponents

CLEMSON, S. C. (AP) — Clemson College's 1958 football schedule matches the Tigers with Atlantic Coast Conference teams in 6 of their 10 starts. Only Duke of the seven ACC rivals will not be played.

In addition, Vanderbilt, Georgia Tech, Boston College and Furman will be faced by Frank Howard's Tigers.

Presbyterian, traditional home opener, has been dropped in favor of Virginia which will come here for the first game to be played in enlarged Memorial Stadium, which will seat about 38,000.

Eagles Beat Outdoor

Frostburg Eagles won two out of three games from Cumberland Outdoor Club in an Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League match last night. R. Duckworth's 20 points led the winners while Joe Baldwin led Outdoor with 18.

McKendree Five Seeks 12th Win

LaVale Methodist trounced St. Mark's in an American Division, Sunday School Basketball League game yesterday at Central YMCA by the score of 33-12.

The win gave LaVale a 5-6 record while St. Mark's suffered its 11th loss against a single victory. "Bucky" Harris was high scorer for LaVale with 11 points. Dave Wratford led St. Mark's with seven.

No games are scheduled today but an important twin bill is on tap tomorrow. At 5 p. m., McKendree Methodist (11-0) will play third-place Kingsley Methodist (9-2) and at 5:55 second-place First Methodist (10-2) engages South Cumberland Salvation Army (4-7).

Home Court Means Much In ACC, Case Declares

By The Associated Press

Home court: That's a little phrase with a big meaning in Atlantic Coast Conference basketball.

"I'm telling you," said North Carolina State Coach Everett Case "this basketball is simply a matter of where you play."

Saturday's games bore out Case's thesis. In each instance the home team won and each could almost be classed an upset: Maryland over North Carolina, Duke over State (in two overtimes), Wake Forest over Virginia and South Carolina over Clemson.

ACC teams have been idle since then, but tonight Clemson travels to Wake Forest and Maryland goes against a non-conference foe, Georgetown.

Case was discussing the Maryland game, which put Maryland and North Carolina in a tie for the ACC lead.

"Maryland has yet to play at Wake Forest, Duke, North Carolina and Raleigh (N. C. State)," Case smiled. "They haven't been on the road yet."

North Carolina Coach Frank McGuire agreed. Discussing his 13-point loss to Maryland, he said: "You see what playing on their home court means."

Then he added, "but, heck, the way they played they could have beaten us at home."

Suspense Master:

Hitchcock's
Films Never Disappointing

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—The one film maker whose movies never disappoint me when rerun on TV is Alfred Hitchcock, the old master of suspense.

We're discussing Hitchcock the movie producer here rather than Hitchcock the TV producer. While his CBS-TV Sunday evening drama program maintains a high level of entertainment, half an hour is usually too short a time span for his special talents.

These reflections are prompted by viewing "Suspicion"—not the NBC-TV Monday evening program, but the movie starring Cary Grant and Joan Fontaine which Hitchcock made in 1941 and in which Miss Fontaine won an Oscar.

File Good School. Anyone trying to write TV suspense dramas could not go to a better school than the file of Hitchcock's old films. When he studied "Suspicion" he'd be struck by its basic simplicity of plot, its downright frugality of setting.

It's the story of a timid, near-sighted English heiress played by Miss Fontaine who falls in love with and marries a wastrel played by Grant. He's a gambler, a no-account—but charming. She comes to believe that he is capable of murder; that he murdered his best friend and plans to murder her. He didn't—and doesn't. Quick 30-second happy ending.

Held Critic. Doesn't sound like much, does it? But it held me as has no TV suspense drama, live or filmed, which I've seen in months.

Miss Fontaine created genuine suspense simply by loving Grant, and caring so much what happened to him; as a result you loved her and cared what happened to her. Grant created genuine suspense by displaying ambivalence toward good and evil; as a result you suspected him of evil when he was being good and hoped that he would turn out well when seemingly bad.

Election Set
For Tomorrow
By Coin Club

Members of the Western Maryland Coin Club will elect officers at a meeting tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. on the second floor of City Hall.

The election will take place after the regular business meeting, and installation will follow.

John Dorn, program director, will conduct a coin auction to close the meeting.

Anthony J. Cioni, president, said the club had an excellent program last year with 65 members and a 50 per cent turnout at all meetings.

The club was organized by the Recreation Department in 1936 and last year acquired the charter of the old Western Maryland Coin Club.

It is affiliated with the American Numismatic Association and is open to any person interested in coins as a hobby.

One of the projects of the club is a monthly bulletin and the current issue gives data on how to order proof and mint sets, gives information on coins struck by the country's mints and lists some coin dealers recommended by the ANA who have 1958 catalogues ready for distribution.

'Kitty Foyle' Destined
As Dreary Fare On TV

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK (INS)—Christophere Morley's "Kitty Foyle," which won an Academy Award for Ginger Rogers and RKO about a generation ago, had its TV premiere yesterday on NBC-TV and seems certain to be one of the dreariest soap operas of all time, which is saying considerable in that beleaguered dramatic category.

In its new TV guise, Kitty hasn't even appeared as yet, and won't for about a week or so we understand, by which time it may be too late. It seems too late by about half-time yesterday during its premiere.

By then the story line had been laid out as a drab repetition of all sad operatics—with a crippled, bibulous father with heart trouble; a brother whose terrible tragedy was liquor taken not in father's blithe manner or quantity but apparently in purest "lost weekend" ugliness; other relatives similarly contrasted and afflicted.

Of course, Kitty is from the wrong side of the station although she seems headed for a long, tortured battle somewhere in the middle of the social tracks, with William Redfield already established as the lad with money who works in his father's bank who tilts diligently with clichés of almost satirical extent: His mother, learning he didn't feel like rummaging around among the big bulls at the vault yesterday, thought he might be heading off immediately after breakfast for a spot of polo, which of course is the time for all such chukker-headed games to begin in soap opera.

The dialogue is thick and juicy, and phony; the problems are pluge and cloying and overwhelming, and still phony; the presentation is in the classical sudsy fashion—little canons of economical TV staging with a great deal of talk and no action, not even implied.

Its complications are close to hilarity, its snobs virtually fascistic, its ingrown jukes of money and family if not breeding.

It had absolutely nothing to recommend it, not even the expert saloon singer Mae Barnes, herein playing a low comedy, trite, stereotype maid.

When the script gets around to her, Kitty will be played by Kathleen Murray, a young actress who will be paid a purported $50,000 a year for her trouble. Trouble is the word.

Maverick's out-rated Beauty and The Beast.

The Thin Man raised his Trendex above 20.

Winchell's move was good for his Trendex: got it back above 15.

Ditto Sinatra, with a 15 and Ida Lupino's TV scalp (13.9) for a change.

Shirley Temple with help from Claire Bloom, buried Sullivan.

Stuido One (in Hollywood) proved again the play's the thing special regulating it, the face of and last night's thing could have been done just as badly here.

The Alcoa Hour didn't exactly telegraph its punchline at the start, but it tape-recorded it.

The Miami Beach organization gave Jack Paar his second worst "Tonight" show; only his premiere was more of a shambles.

'Eat Popcorn'
Sign Aids TV
Ad Exhibition

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—The hidden message "eat popcorn" was flashed at five second intervals on a closed television circuit today to show the Federal Communications Commission how subliminal advertising works.

Nobody rushed out to eat popcorn. One congressman said he got thirsty, rather than hungry for popcorn.

But maybe some of the viewers—FCC, congressmen and members of the press—will have dreams of popcorn as a result of their experience, backers of the project said.

The Subliminal Projection Co., Inc., which is seeking a patent and federal approval for the quicker-than-the-eye TV advertising technique asked the FCC to set up "rules of the road" for its use on television.

These ads are directed at a person's subconscious mind, moving too fast to be considered visual advertising.

Richard Forrest, executive vice president of the firm, asked the FCC to regulate use of the new technique. He said it should never be used unless the audience is told in advance what hidden message is about to be flashed to them.

The FCC is studying the process and is expected to decide whether it needs any special regulating it, the face of and last night's thing could have been done just as badly here.

Forrest said his firm has held the FCC rules at the off using the process awaiting start, but it tape-recorded it.

Sen. Potter (R-Mich), member of the Senate Communications subcommittee and one of those who called for an FCC demonstration, watched the show today and said later "I think it (subliminal advertising) has a great potential danger unless it is regulated."

The major networks have notified the FCC they will not use the ads. The FCC has said it knows of no stations actually using them now.

It was Arnold Bennett who said: "Good taste is better than bad taste, but bad taste is better than no taste at all."

Lilo Newest Film Cupcake

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The German film industry's latest contribution to Hollywood is a Swiss cupcake named Lilo or Lisa Pulver.

The Pulver translates as "powder," and she is indeed an explosive doll. As to her first name, there is some confusion. Universal-International, which is starring her in "A Time to Love and a Time to Die," gave her the Lisa. She's trying to get it back to Lilo. Lisa is 28, Bernese-born, with a ready laugh and natural beauty that requires no makeup. She looks slender, but she proves she has curves when she dons a bathing suit, as was inevitable when she came to Hollywood. Miss Pulver is evidence of the new entertainment era in Europe. Germans now own more than a million TV sets and the new entertainment is already cutting in to theater business, she reported.

Hand Defies Point Count

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

West had a hand that was all full of point count. He decided to play cagy with it and merely overcalled South's opening spade bid with two hearts.

North bid two spades and East with plenty of nothing passed as did South. Now West leaped to four hearts and North stayed right in the swing by going to four spades.

West doubled and opened the king of diamonds whereupon, South with a nice 11 high card point opening opposite dummy's four point raise proceeded to make all the tricks.

There wasn't much difficulty about it. He simply led a club to dummy's ace and ruffed a club. Since both opponents followed there was only one club left. South played the ace and king of trumps and they broke evenly. Now he ruffed a diamond in dummy, ruffed another club to establish the rest of dummy's nice seven card suit, ruffed an other diamond with dummy's last trump and discarded his three hearts and last diamond on dummy's good clubs.

East was quite angry with West. He pointed out that West could have let the hand play at two spades and that surely West did not have to double.

I must say that West received the full treatment and I am sure that if he had his life to live over again he would have passed two spades. At the same time I feel that the next time West picks up 21 points he will be willing and anxious to push the opponents into game once more and will probably give them the same chance to make it doubled. Who can blame him?

♥♦♣ CARD Sense ♦♣♥

Q—The bidding has been:
West North East South
1 ♠ Double Redbl. ?
You, South, hold:
♠ A K 7 6 5 4 3 2 ♦ A J 8 5 4 3
What do you do?
A—Bid one spade. You have five clubs but spades is the top suit and you have the king.

TODAY'S QUESTION
The bidding continues with a pass by West, three spades by North and four diamonds by East. What do you, South, do now?

Barber Makes Haircut Short

HINTON, W. Va. (AP)—A. L. Neely, a barber-shop operator, was clipping a customer's hair when two young men and their girl friends entered. They wanted to get married.
"Make it short," they said, referring to the wedding ceremony and not the haircut, after Neely offered to go with them to church. The four insisted the ceremony be performed right away.
Neely interrupted the haircut, bigger and rounder hips than he was giving, picked up his Bible and pronounced the four husbands and wives.
Neely is an elder of the Primitive Baptist Church at nearby Tunnel Hill.

Your Horoscope

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

JAN. 21 TO APRIL 20 (Aries)—Before rushing into anything, think things out to their logical conclusion. Weigh the importance of even small moves before making them. Steady application to essentials best.

APRIL 21 TO MAY 21 (Taurus)—Don't take on added responsibilities if it is not necessary to your program. Be sure efforts are channeled in the right direction.

MAY 22 TO JUNE 21 (Gemini)—Put your time and effort into worthwhile activities only. Dispel angry thoughts with a calm and diplomatic manner. Don't waste energies on non-essentials.

JUNE 22 TO JULY 21 (Cancer)—Note advice to Gemini. You may have to retrench some, tone down over-enthusiasm. A cool, unbiased appraisal can show the way. In your quest for success, lend others a helping hand, too.

JULY 22 TO AUGUST 21 (Leo)—Do the right thing at the right moment and you can make headway now. Worthwhile endeavors in both business and private matters sponsored. Minimize transportation, manual labor among top favored activities.

AUGUST 22 TO SEPTEMBER 21 (Virgo)—There are prospects of appreciable returns if you plan your moves judiciously. Don't let unnecessary strain impede your performance. A smooth, coordinated effort will do the trick.

SEPTEMBER 22 TO OCTOBER 21 (Libra)—Don't permit "hecklers" to rattle your normally calm exterior. Your better judgment will tell you how to cope with problems. Heed it. Profit by past experience, too.

OCTOBER 22 TO NOVEMBER 21 (Scorpio)—You can do a commendable job now if you allocate tasks carefully. Set yourself a reasonable, workable pace unimpeded by non-essentials. Avoid nerve-racking rushing.

NOVEMBER 22 TO DECEMBER 21 (Sagittarius)—Similar to Scorpio. Don't castigate yourself to the point of irritation. But do your part. Use your natural ability to advance sound causes.

DECEMBER 22 TO JANUARY 20 (Capricorn)—Both business and personal matters can prove painful now if you manage things well. Real estate, investments, buying substantial items require shrewdness.

JANUARY 21 TO FEBRUARY 19 (Aquarius)—Don't become involved in a series of unconnected projects. Scattering energies in this way is most ineffective. Be optimistic about the future, but do your part. Use your natural ability to advance sound causes.

FEBRUARY 20 TO MARCH 20 (Pisces)—Your innate industriousness, plus system, can bring admirable results now. Consistent progress is yours through proper planning and "follow through." Don't force issues.

YOU BORN TODAY are not as demonstrative in affections as some, but you feel deeply, nevertheless. The business world is "natural" for men and women of this sign. Your persistence, caution and independence can be put to very successful use, or used wrongly to annoy and cause differences—whichever you choose. You are always seeking new means of achievement and are ready to accept modern methods at the drop of the proverbial hat. Curb discontent and jealousy.

High-Heel Shoes Increase Hips
LOS ANGELES (INS)—An expert has warned fashion-conscious women that spiked heels and big hips are synonymous.

Dr. Elizabeth Austin of the University of Southern California says that women who constantly wear high-heeled shoes develop bigger and rounder hips than do he was giving, picked up his Bible and pronounced the four husbands and wives.

Neely is an elder of the Primitive Baptist Church at nearby Tunnel Hill.

Dr. Austin explained that high-heel shoes produce a type of posture that just naturally "over-exercises" the hip muscles.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Churches Consider Motivational Attendance Research

By WARD CANNEL
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Motivational Research—also known as psychological merchandising—may soon be used by American churches to bring more people to worship.

According to the Rev. Stanley G. Matthews, public relations director of the Religion in American Life Program:

"We are not satisfied with the usual answers people give to the poll-takers asking about worship attendance. We want the real reasons why 48 million attend and 56 million don't. We need a new technique for finding out."

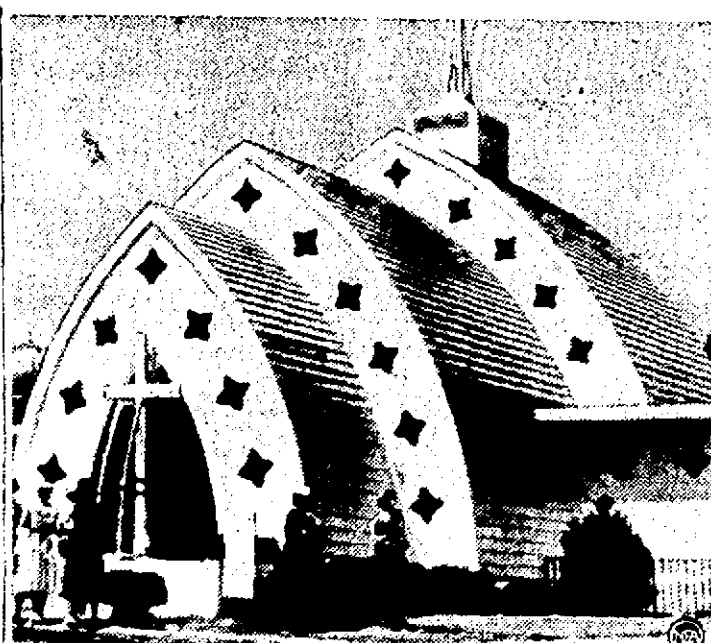

This technique of getting to hidden fears and needs belongs to MR. It has already proved successful in probing the consumer's mind to boost commodity sales. And it may be able to do the same job for the churches—once a few matters are cleared up.

First on the list of problems is money. A full-scale depth probe will cost about $50,000.

"This is no project to be carried out by part-time poll-takers making extra money," according to Daniel Yankelovich, whose firm of Nowland & Co. may get the job to divine public feeling about worship.

"This kind of work requires highly trained psychologists and interviewers who will spend at least three hours with a subject," Yankelovich said.

He explained that depth interviewing is a five-part technique. There are direct questions followed by systematic exploration of each answer, reconciliation of inconsistencies between the two, followed by psychological tests and analyzed at the end of each day's probing.

NEW-STYLE CHURCH IN KANSAS CITY: "In the jet age, we must bring our message . . . in new packaging."

"No two days of interviewing are alike," he said. "We change the approach and emphasis according to what we learn as we go along. The result is a full profile of all the deep feelings."

It is this result which presents the church people with their second and major problem: morality. Is it moral, religious institutions ask themselves, to manipulate people by putting the finger on exposed needs and fears?

While some of the 56 million non-church-goers claim this is what churches have been doing for years, Yankelovich answers the question in a different way. "Think of it in terms of communication," he said. "Motivational Research has been able to provide consumers with a way to express their needs to manufacturers."

"Certainly some manufacturers national research where we later told our clients to get out of the business."

But counselling, according to the Rev. Mr. Matthews, is not what his organization wants. The Religion in American Life Program has 70 members from all faiths and is backed by 24 national religious groups.

"All we want from this kind of research," the Rev. Mr. Matthews said, "are the findings."

Does this mean that churches may change if popular feeling calls for it?

"Our members," he said, "will use the facts as they see fit. But one thing is certain: in the jet age, we must bring our message—whatever it is—in new packaging."

Seven Accused Of Beer Theft, Meter Damage

CAMBRIDGE (U)—Six juveniles and a young man were held in $1,000 bail on charges of stealing beer and stealing and destroying parking meters valued at $1,200.

Police Chief Bruce Kinnamond said five cases of beer were stolen and seven parking meters broken into. He said the youths got only about $6 in meter money. Four of the meters were tossed into Cambridge Creek, Kinnamond said.

The eldest of the defendants charged with breaking and entering and grand larceny is Norman Short, 24. All but two of the youths are from Cambridge, the others from Taylor's Island and Madison.

Moved Too Slow

DENVER (INS)—Denver police officers sympathetically passed the hat for a cold, poorly-dressed man they found trying to get into a car "to get warm."

The destitute transient said he would use the money to get back to Texas and home. He didn't make it, because he was jailed two days later for investigation of a burglary.

State Employees Withdraw Pay Call, Okeh Token Plan

BALTIMORE (U)—Advised against trying to get 11 to 12 million dollars "from a cow that has been milked pretty dry," Maryland's organized State employees have withdrawn an earlier demand for a $600 general salary increase.

At a meeting last night, the Maryland Classified Employees Assn. adopted a salary scale which will give some of them only token raises. The scale was proposed by the Standard Salary Board and Gov. McKeldin.

Charles D. Harris, attorney for the association and a member of the salary board, advised against the general increase at a time when "thousands of your fellow citizens are out of work."

Harris said McKeldin would include $430,000 for pay raises when he presents his budget to the General Assembly next month. The new scale was passed without a dissenting vote by about 300 employees representing some 11,000 workers throughout the state.

A tentative move to lower the across-the-board request to $200 was quashed.

Jury Trials Set In Civil Cases

Jury trials of civil cases will start January 30 in Circuit Court and be completed March 19.

Trials are scheduled for January 30 and 31, February 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 10, 11, 13, 14, 17, 18, 19, 20 and 24. All of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company cases will be tried beginning February 25 unless settled beforehand. The final cases for the January term are docketed for March 18 and 19.

Chief Judge George Henderson and Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris will be in Baltimore January 23 and 24 attending a judicial conference.

Man, 26, Hurt By Explosion Of Fireworks

CHESTERTOWN, Md. (U)—George E. Burris, 26-year-old Sudlersville man, was in Kent-Queen Annes Hospital today with burns on the hands and face suffered in a fireworks explosion.

The accident occurred yesterday at the Bomber Manufacturing Co. located near Millington, 12 miles east of here. Burris was in a small frame building, which caught fire. Leslie Jones, manager, estimated loss of the building and equipment at $5,000. The firm is a branch of Havre de Grace Fireworks Co.

Mobile Medical Teams For Disasters Urged

BALTIMORE (U)—A Baltimore surgeon has proposed a plan for organizing small, mobile surgical and medical teams to give aid in time of disaster.

The idea came from Dr. I. Ridgeway Trimble, associate professor of surgery at Johns Hopkins University. He outlined the plan yesterday at a meeting of a group he heads—the emergency medical service committee of the Maryland Medical and Chirurgical Faculty.

Dr. Trimble said the medical profession in Maryland is not prepared to provide emergency care on a large-scale basis and said his lack "has been a continuing source of dissatisfaction and worry" to his committee.

"There is no known chain of command as to who summons whom in a disaster," he said. "Does the call for help come first from the police or fire department? The Red Cross or the governor? The mayor? The commissioner of health? Civil Defense headquarters? The Army?"

"Whom could these organizations call? These points should be settled without delay."

Dr. Trimble's proposal called for each doctor to assemble his own team of members who live near him for emergency care. The physician would be responsible for seeing his three assistants were trained and notifying them when called. The committee would have a file of all teams.

'Moving Day' For AEC Has Its Problems

WASHINGTON (U)—Telephone communication to—and even between—members of the Atomic Energy Commission staff was somewhat difficult yesterday, due to "moving day" conditions.

Problems arose from the fact that the AEC was in the final stages of moving most of its offices from downtown Washington to a new building near Germantown, Md., about 39 miles from the nation's capital.

The situation was further complicated by the fact that because it was moving day, all of AEC's 1600 employees with the exception of a skeleton force were on "administrative leave" for the day.

Commissioners and other key personnel were on call at their homes, however, through divisional duty officers who were on the job, a spokesman said.
